THE INDUSTRIAL AND PROVIDENT SOCIETIES ACT, 1893, AND AMENDMENT ACT, 1913.

Introduction and Explanatory Note.

FOLLOWING the practice which was adopted in regard to the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1876, the United Board have thought it desirable to issue the Act of 1893 and the Amendment Act of 1913 in a form which will facilitate reference by societies, together with some instructions as to its provisions and requirements relating to the administration of societies.

The Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, which came into force on January 1st, 1894, and the Industrial and Provident Societies (Amendment) Act, 1913, which came into force on January 1st, 1914, are the result of action taken by the Central Board of the Co-operative Union. The Act of 1893 was for the purpose of amending the Act of 1876, and that of 1913 for amending the Act of 1893 on the lines of experience gained in the actual working of co-operative societies.

PREVIOUS LEGISLATION RELATING TO INDUSTRIAL AND PROVIDENT SOCIETIES.

By the kindness of E. W. Brabrook, Esq., late Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies, we are enabled to give the following summary of past legislation affecting Industrial and Provident Societies:

The Friendly Societies Act, 1834 (4 and 5 William IV., c. 40), allowed of the formation of societies for any "purpose which is not illegal." The Friendly Societies Act, 1846 (9 and 10 Vict., c. 27), allowed of the establishment of societies "for the frugal investment of the savings of the members, for better enabling them to purchase food, firing, clothes, or other necessaries, or the tools or implements of their trade or calling, or to provide for the education of their children or kindred." The Friendly Societies Act, 1850 (13 and 14 Vict., c. 115), contained the like provision. The Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1852 (15 and 16 Vict., c. 31), commonly called "Mr. Slaney's Act," and founded on the report of the committee on the savings of the middle and working classes, 1850 (of which he was chairman), made further provision for such societies. It was amended by the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1854 (17 Vict. c. 25), and the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1856 (19 and 20 Vict., c. 49). These Acts were consolidated and amended by the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1862 (25 and 26 Vict., c. 87). This Act was amended by the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1867 (30 and 31 Vict., c. 117), and by the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1871 (34 and 35 Vict., c. 80). These Acts were consolidated and amended by the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1876 (39 and 40 Vict., c. 45), which Statute was practically re-enacted with some important amendments by the Act of 1893; and is now further amended by the Amendment Act of 1913.

THE INDUSTRIAL AND PROVIDENT SOCIETIES ACT, 1893 to 1913.

In this introduction the Act is referred to by the number of its Sections, and by the order in which they appear.

Sections 1 and 2.—Title and Extent.

These sections specify the title of the Act, and state when it comes into operation, and how far it extends.

Section 3.—Existing Societies.

This section brings under the control of the new Act all existing societies which have been registered under any previous Act relating to Industrial and Provident Societies.

Section 4.—Objects for which a Society may be formed.

Under the Act of 1876 societies could only be registered for the purpose of carrying on any labour, trade, or handicraft. By the provisions of the new Act power is given to register societies for carrying on any industries, businesses, or trades authorised by their rules, thus giving greater latitude as regards the purposes for which a society may be registered. This section also limits the interest to be held by any individual in the shares of the society to £200 sterling. This limitation does not debar societies from taking, and individuals from holding, loans beyond this amount.
SECTION 5.—How to Register a Society.

Clause (1). Society must have at least seven members.

Clause (2). Form of application (see Form A, pages 131, 132, and 133) to be obtained from the Registrar [or from the Co-operative Union], then to be filled up and signed by seven members and the secretary, and sent with two copies of the rules of the society for registration.

Clause (3). The name chosen for the society must not be identical with or closely resemble that of any other society.

Clause (5). The word "limited" must be the last word in the name of the society.

Clause (6). A society must be registered in that part of the United Kingdom in which its registered office is situate, i.e., England and Wales, Scotland, or Ireland, but if a society intends to carry on business in more than one part, its rules should also be recorded by the Registrar of the other part.

The names and addresses of the Registrars are as follows:—

England and Wales: G. S. Robertson, Esq. (Chief Registrar), Dean Stanley Street, Westminster, London, S.W.

Scotland: R. Addison Smith, Esq., 3A, Howe Street, Edinburgh;

Ireland: D. O'C. Miley, Esq., 12, South Frederick Street, Dublin.

SECTION 1, AMENDMENT ACT, 1913.—REGISTRATION OF SOCIETY CONSISTING OF TWO OR MORE OTHER SOCIETIES.

This section provides for the registration of a society consisting solely of two or more registered societies. The application to register must be signed by two members of the Committee and the secretary of each of the constituent societies and accompanied by two printed copies of the rules of each society.

Sections 6, 7, and 8.—Acknowledgment or Refusal of Registry.

These sections provide that the Registrar shall issue an acknowledgment or certificate of registry to all societies complying with the provisions of the Act, and in the event of his refusal to issue such acknowledgment the applicants for registration are given the right of appeal to the courts. The acknowledgment of registry is given in the following form, and should be carefully preserved, as it is conclusive evidence of a society's corporate existence:—

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF REGISTRY OF SOCIETY.

The.........................................................LIMITED is registered under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, this.............day of ........................................

[Seal or stamp of Central Office, or signature of Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland.]
Section 9.—Cancelling and Suspension of Registry.

The registration of a society may be cancelled or suspended—

(a) If— at any time the number of its members is reduced below seven; or if such registration has been obtained by fraud or mistake:

(b) If the society requests it, on such evidence as the Registrar may require;

(c) If the society is proved to exist for an illegal purpose, or if it violates any of the provisions of the Act.

A society whose registration is cancelled or suspended ceases to enjoy any of the privileges or the protection of the Act, and its members incur an unlimited liability for its debts.

Section 10, Clause (1).—What the Rules must Contain.

The rules must contain provisions for all matters mentioned hereunder:

Matters to be Provided for by the Rules of Societies Registered under this Act.

1. Object, name, and registered office of the society.

2. Terms of admission of the members, including any society or company, investing funds in the society under the provisions of this Act.

3. Mode of holding meetings, scale and right of voting, and of making, altering, or rescinding rules.

4. The appointment and removal of a committee of management, by whatever name, of managers, or other officers, and their respective powers and remuneration.

5. Determination of the amount of interest, not exceeding two hundred pounds sterling, in the shares of the society, which any member other than a registered society may hold.

6. Determination whether the society may contract loans or receive money on deposit, subject to the provisions of this Act, from members or others; and, if so, under what conditions, on what security, and to what limits of amount.

7. Determination whether the shares or any of them shall be transferable, and provision for the form of transfer and registration of the shares, and for the consent of the committee thereto; determination whether the shares, or any of them, shall be withdrawable, and provision for the mode of withdrawal and for payment of the balance due thereon on withdrawing from the society.
8. Determination whether and how members may withdraw from the society, and provision for the claims of the representatives of deceased members, or the trustees of the property of insane and bankrupt members, and for the payment of nominees.

9. Mode of application of profits.

11. Determination whether, and by what authority, and in what manner, any part of the capital may be invested.

12. The inspection of the books of the society by order of the Registrar.

13. The appointment of an inspector to examine and report on the affairs of the society, and the calling of a special meeting by order of the Registrar.

14. The voluntary dissolution of the society.

The statutory duties of the society are to be set forth in the rules for the information of the members, and are as follows:—

(a) The delivery on demand of copies of the rules and the sum to be paid for the same.

(b) The publication and use of name of the society.

(c) The annual audit of accounts, the appointment of a public auditor for the purpose, and the keeping of a copy of the last balance sheet and the auditor’s report always hung up at the registered office.

(d) The sending to the Registrar of an annual return of the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the societies, with copies of the auditors’ reports and balance sheets, and the supplying on application of a copy of the last annual return.

(e) The inspection of a member’s account and the books containing the names of the members.

(f) The sending to the Registrar of a triennial return of the holding of each person in the society whether in shares or loans.

In regard to the matters above-mentioned it should be observed that—

I. Any society registered under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act may hold shares in another society if the rules of the society in which the investment is proposed to be made permit, and to any extent specified in such rules; but a joint-stock company or other body corporate cannot hold more than £200, which is also the limit fixed for individual members.

II. A society may contract loans in any manner specified in its rules, and up to any limit stated therein. It should be understood, however, that there is a great distinction between loans and deposits. Loans can only be received where the conditions of repayment are secured either by agreement, bond, mortgage, or other legal form. Deposits at call can be dealt with only within such limits as are fixed by Section 19 (3), and provision must be made in the rules for dealing with such deposits.

Societies should make their rule regarding loans as wide as possible. An agreement is the simplest and easiest form of security; but this can only be used where the rules of a society permit it. For the guidance of societies the following model regulations for a loan department, together with a form of loan agreement, are inserted here:

MODEL REGULATIONS FOR THE CONDUCT OF A LOAN DEPARTMENT.

The..............................................................................Co-operative Society Limited.

REGULATIONS OF LOAN DEPARTMENT.

1. Loans may be received either from members or non-members.

2. Each lender shall pay sixpence for a pass book, containing a printed loan agreement, signed by two members of the committee in the name of the society, and by the lender, and having a 6d. agreement stamp, also containing a printed copy of these regulations, in which shall be entered all loans and repayments.

3. Nor more than £ shall be received from any lender in any year, commencing the day of each and no account shall exceed £ exclusive of interest.

4. A receipt stamp shall be affixed to all receipts or payments of £2 and upwards, in the case of receipts at the cost of the society, and in that of payments of the lender.

5. Interest at the rate of £ per annum shall be paid (half-yearly or quarterly) on such days as the general meetings of the society fix from time to time, on each sum of £1 each calendar month in each (half year or quarter) during which it has continued in account.
6. Notice shall be given of all withdrawals, according to the scale hereto annexed. All sums so withdrawn shall be payable in the week succeeding the termination of the notice; but the committee, at their discretion, may pay any sum of which notice of withdrawal has been given at any time after the receipt of such notice.

7. All notices shall be in the form hereto annexed, and shall be made or entered in a book kept by the secretary, as the committee direct.

8. No payment shall be received or made without the production of the loan book. Lenders must attend personally, if possible, when any money is to be withdrawn.

9. If a loan book is filled with entries it shall be delivered to the secretary of the society, that the balance may be transferred to another book, for which the lender shall pay sixpence.

10. The society shall be in no way affected by any writing or mark made in any loan book, except it is made by the secretary of the society or some person acting under his authority.

11. The loan book must be preserved intact, and if lost, torn, or cut, shall be replaced at the cost of the lender; and when an account is closed shall be given up to the society.

FORM OF NOTICE OF WITHDRAWAL.

The..................................................Co-operative Society Limited.

..................................................19........

I hereby give notice to withdraw £ on my loan account with the above-named society.

.................................................................Signature.

SCALE OF NOTICE REQUIRED.

Any sum up to £5, two weeks; exceeding £5 and not over £10, four weeks; and four weeks' additional notice for every further sum of £10, or fraction thereof.

N.B.—Loans will be received and paid every between and unless notice is given to the contrary.

The secretary has charge of the accounts, and will see that proper attendance is given at the times appointed for receipts and payments.
LOAN AGREEMENT.

The…………………………………..Co-operative Society Limited.

This agreement, made the day of between the above-named society of the one part, herein called “the society,” and of herein called “the lender,” which name shall include the executors, administrators, or assigns of such lender, witnesses as follows:—

1. In consideration of the moneys to be paid to the society by the lender from time to time, the society agrees with the lender—

   (1) On any demand of the lender made in accordance with the regulations, forms, and scale of notice contained in this loan book, to pay the lender the sum so demanded, not exceeding the balance appearing to be due upon the account contained in such book, or in any like book similarly numbered and signed issued in replacement thereof;

   (2) To pay interest upon the balance of principal money appearing to be due to the lender on such account, after the rate and in the manner mentioned in such regulations;

   (3) In the event of any default being made in any such payment, to pay the lender on demand the balance then due upon the said account for principal and interest, with all costs or expenses whatsoever which the lender may be put to by reason of such default.

2. In consideration of the above agreements, the lender agrees with the society to be bound by all the regulations contained in the loan book now issued:

   In witness whereof the undersigned members of the committee of management of the society, in its name and by its authority, and the lender, have set their hands the year and day first aforesaid.

   .................................................................
   Members of the Committee.

   .................................................................Lender.

It is not necessary to include the detailed regulations of the loan department in the registered rules of the society, it will suffice to have them printed in the loan pass books issued to the lenders.

Societies whose rules do not permit of "agreements" being used, may find it convenient to adopt the following form of "bond":—

FORM OF BOND TO BE GIVEN BY A SOCIETY AS SECURITY FOR A LOAN.

Know all men by these presents, that the above-named society is firmly bound to of in the county of hereinafter called "the obligee" [his or her] executors or administrators, in a sum equal to double the amount, to be ascertained as is provided by the condition hereof, for which payment to be truly made to the obligee, [his or her] executors or administrators, or their certain attorney, the said society binds itself by these presents, sealed with its seal.

Dated the day of 19

[SEAL OF SOCIETY]

.................................................................Secretary.
Whereas the obligee has opened with the said society a loan account, upon the terms stated in the notice signed by the secretary of the said society, contained in the loan book hereto annexed. Now the condition of the above-contained bond is, that if the said society pays to the obligee, or the executors or administrators of such obligee, from time to time so long as such account continues open, on any demand made as is provided by such notice, such sum as is so demanded, not exceeding the amount then due to the obligee on the said account for principal and interest after such rate as is stated in the said notice, then this bond shall be void, but otherwise shall remain in full force for double the sum due on such account when the demand is made.

Sealed and delivered in the presence of \[\text{Members of the Committee of Management.}\]

III. The manner in which the profits are to be disposed of must be specified in the rules, or, otherwise, it must be stated in what manner the appropriation shall be determined.

As societies have experienced much difficulty in dealing with their profits to the fullest extent and with the utmost freedom permitted by the Act, and as such difficulties have mainly been created by the faulty construction of societies' rules, we recommend the adoption of the following rule, which has been drawn up with a view to meet contingencies of every kind. It will be seen that the plan recommended in this rule is to appropriate a portion of the profits to a Reserve Fund from which charitable and other grants may be made by the members on due notice, as occasion may arise. Of course societies can leave out of this rule any portion which does not meet their requirements:

MODEL RULE RE PROFITS.

[Providing that all special grants shall be made from the reserve fund.]

Rule.—The profits of all business carried on by or on account of the society shall be applied as follows:—

(1) In reduction of the value of the fixed stock and plant of the society, at the annual rate of 10 per cent on fixtures and of 2\(\frac{1}{2}\) per cent on shops, warehouses, and buildings.
(2) In the reduction of the preliminary expenses (if any) incurred in forming the society, and remaining unwritten off in its books, at such rate, being not less than 5 per cent per annum, as the ordinary business meetings on the recommendation of the committee from time to time direct.

(3) In payment of a dividend upon the share capital of the society, at such rate, not exceeding 5 per cent per annum, as the ordinary business meetings may from time to time direct.

(4) In forming, by applying such percentage of the net profits as the committee or general meeting determine, a reserve fund, to which all fines shall be carried, applicable, by a resolution of the ordinary business meetings, on the proposal either of the committee or of a member, and in regard to which notice has been given on the balance sheet—

(a) To the equalisation of dividends;

(b) To meet any other contingency affecting the business of the society;

(c) To any other purpose which the general meetings may from time to time direct, whether such purpose be charitable, philanthropic, of public utility, or any other purpose whether within the objects for which the society is formed or not.

(5) In promoting instruction, culture, or recreation, by forming an education fund, to which 2½ per cent of the net profits, or such other sum or percentage as any ordinary business meeting may resolve shall be carried.

(6) In paying, while the society continues a member of the Co-operative Union, such subscription to its funds as the rules and orders of the Union fix.

(7) In promoting any other social or provident purpose authorised by any special general meeting, or any two successive ordinary business meetings, by applying thereto such sums as the ordinary business meetings may vote.

(8) The remainder of the net profits left, after providing for the preceding charges, shall be divided between—

(a) The members who have made purchases of the society during the period to which the division relates, according to the amount of their purchases;

(b) The non-members who have made purchases of the society during such period, according to the amount of their purchases, provided that the sum so divided shall not exceed one-half of the sum to which they would be entitled as members;
(c) The employés of the society at such rate, not less than
4d. in the £ on the gross sales, and 3d. in the £ on net profits, as the ordinary business meetings fix, to be divided among them as such meetings direct.

(9) All dividends not withdrawn within one calendar month after they become receivable, shall be applied in or towards the payment of shares, which shall be subject to the same conditions as to withdrawal as are in force in respect to all other shares, and shall be credited to the members respectively in the books of the society until the number of shares held by any member reaches the limit allowed by the Act, or such inferior limit as the society may direct, after which they shall be credited to such members as loans, withdrawable on such notice, not less than one calendar month, as the committee may determine from time to time. No fine shall be charged in respect of any share so placed to the credit of any member.

IV. The rule relating to the power of investment should be very carefully drafted, in view of the extended provisions contained in Sections 38, 39, and 40, of this Act. The following rule is recommended for adoption by societies. It includes the extended powers of the Act, and also provides for making advances to members:—

MODEL RULE RE INVESTMENTS.

Rule .—Power to Invest Surplus Capital.—The committee may invest any part of the capital of the society as follows:—

(1) In advances to members on the security of real or personal property; and

(2) In or upon any security in which trustees are for the time being authorised by law to invest; and

(3) In or upon any mortgage, bond, debenture, debenture stock, anuity, rentcharge, rent, or other security (not being securities payable to bearer) authorised by or under any Act of Parliament passed or to be passed of any local authority as defined by section 34 of the Local Loans Act, 1875; and

(4) In the shares or on the security of any other society registered or deemed to be registered under the Act, or under the Building Societies Acts, or incorporated by Act of Parliament or by Charter, provided that no such investment be made in the shares of any society or company other than one with limited liability; and

(5) If the society is not chargeable with income tax in pursuance of the Act, in any savings bank certified under the Trustee Savings Bank Act, 1863, or in a Post Office Savings Bank.
Rule. — Power to Vote in respect to Investments.—The society may appoint any one or more of its members to vote on its behalf at the meetings of any other body corporate in which the society has invested any part of its funds, although such member or members may not personally be shareholders in such other body corporate. (See the Act, Section 41.)

V. The following matters must also be provided for by the rules, if the society intends to use the powers given it in respect of them. These are:

(a) Whether disputes between members and the society shall be decided by a court of summary jurisdiction or by arbitration, as is allowed by Section 49, and if so, in what manner the arbitrators shall be appointed;

(b) The making advances to members on real or personal security, under Section 40;

(c) The vacating mortgages by a receipt endorsed, under Section 43 (1), if any form other than that given by the Act is intended to be used;

(d) The requiring officers to give security under Section 47;

(e) If the society has transferable capital only, and intends to carry on the business of banking, provision for keeping the half-yearly statement required by Section 19 (2) hung up in the registered office or other place of business;

(f) If it is intended to extend the right of inspection beyond that specified in Section 17 (2), in accordance with the provisions of Section 17 (3), a rule should be made for this purpose in which should be mentioned the books or accounts to which the right of inspection shall extend;

(g) Charging a sum not exceeding 3d. for registering nominations or revocations or variations thereof. (Treasury Regulations 13.)

(h) Exclusion of persons between sixteen and twenty-one years from membership. (Section 32.)

(i) Exclusion of power to hold and deal with land. (Section 36.)

VI. The Co-operative Union has prepared a set of Model Rules, which comply with the requirements of the Act of Parliament, and contain provisions on all matters on which societies are likely to require guidance. It would save much trouble and expense to societies about to be formed if the promoters of such societies would in all cases apply to the Co-operative Union, Holyoake House, Hanover Street, Manchester, for permission to use these rules, which have been examined by the Registrar, and would be registered without delay.
SECTION 10, CLAUSES (2) AND (3).—Amendments of Rules.

(1) No amendment of rule is valid until it is registered.

(2) After a special meeting has been duly held to pass an amendment of rule, application should be made to the Registrar [or to the Co-operative Union] for a form to enable the society to make formal application, as required by the Treasury Regulations. There are two of these forms:—

The 1st for a partial amendment of the rules. (See Form B, page 134.)

The 2nd for a complete amendment, that is, the substitution of new rules for the existing rules. (See Form D, page 136.)

In applying for the proper form it will, therefore, be necessary to state for which purpose it is required.

(3) In the first place the applications must be accompanied by—

(a) A copy of the existing rules marked so as to show where the alterations occur, and what they are;

(b) Two printed or written copies of the amendments, each marked with the letter O, and signed by the secretary and three members of the society;

(c) A declaration made by the secretary before a justice of the peace of the county where the registered office of the society is situate, stating that the amendment submitted for registration has been duly made by the society, and that to the best of his knowledge and belief the same is not contrary to the provisions of the Act in that behalf;

(d) The fee of £1 as prescribed by the Treasury Regulations.

(4) In the second case the form of application is similar to that for the original registration of rules, and must be filled up in the same manner by stating the new rules which make provision for the different matters required to be contained in the rules. The application must be accompanied by—

(a) A printed copy of the registered rules;

(b) Two printed copies of the amendments, each marked with the letter P, and signed by the secretary and three members of the society;

(c) A declaration as in the case of a partial amendment;

(d) The fee of £1 as prescribed by the Treasury Regulations.

(5) If the amendments are not contrary to any of the provisions of this Act, the Registrar will issue an acknowledgment of registry similar in form to that given on the registration of the original rules.
Whenever a society desires to amend its rules, either partially or wholly, it is essential that the conditions of its existing rules should be strictly observed.

It will be found in the rules of every society that such rules cannot be altered or amended except by observing certain conditions and formalities therein set forth.

It is requisite to call a special meeting of the members, of which due notice specifying the exact nature of the business to be transacted is to be given, and any amendment or alteration of rule must be agreed to by such majority as is required by the rules.

When an amendment has been duly passed by the necessary majority at a special meeting of the society, two copies of the same should be sent to the Registrar accompanied by Form B or D (previously referred to) as the case may be, and with these documents there should also be forwarded a fee of 20s. for registration.

Section 10, Clause (4).—Supplying Copy of Rules.

A society is required to supply a copy of its rules to every person on demand, at a price not exceeding 1s.

Sections 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, and Amendment Act 1913, Section 4.—Duties of Societies.

A society is required—

(1) To have a registered office, and send to the Registrar notice of every change in it;

(2) To keep its name painted or affixed on the outside of every place where its business is carried on, and mention it in all documents issued by it, and also to have it engraven in legible characters on its seal;

(3) To have its accounts audited at least once a year, by a public auditor or auditors.

(4) On or before the 31st of March in each year to send to the Registrar an annual return of its receipts and expenditure, funds, and effects;

(5) Once at least in every three years to make and send to the Registrar, along with the Annual Return for the year, a special return showing the holding of each person in the society (whether in shares or loans) at the date to which the return is made out.
(6) To supply gratuitously to every person who has an interest in its funds a copy of its last annual return;

(7) To keep a copy of the last balance sheet, with auditors' report, always hung up;

(8) To supply copies of rules as required by Section 10 (4).

N.B.—The Annual Return.—It should be specially noticed that the last day for sending in the annual return is March 31st.

In the Amendment Act of 1913 societies are allowed a certain latitude as to the date to which the annual return is to be made up, which may now be any time from the 1st September to January 31st. This enables societies to overcome the difficulties experienced in the past as to stocktaking and balancing during the exceptionally busy period of Christmas and New Year.

It is also provided that a copy of the report of the auditor, if any, and a copy of each balance sheet made during the period included in the return, shall be sent to the Registrar.

Section 17.—Inspection of Books by Members.

(1) and (2) Notwithstanding anything in the existing rules of societies, at the time when this Act comes into force (January 1st, 1894), the right of inspection by a member or person having an interest in the funds of a society extends only to his own account and to the books containing the names of the members.

(3) But a society may, by a rule registered subsequent to this Act coming into force, authorise the inspection of any or all of its books, but all books intended to be open for inspection must be mentioned in the rule and the conditions under which they may be inspected must be stated.

Section 18.—Inspection of Books by Order of Registrar.

This section enables any ten members of a society who have been members for at least twelve months, to make application to the Registrar for the appointment of an actuary or accountant to inspect the books of the society and to report thereon. Under the provisions of the Act of 1876 any person having an interest in the funds of the society could demand to inspect every book of the society.

This privilege of unlimited inspection had become much abused, and was often used not so much for the general good of a society as from self-interested motives, and for the satisfaction of a member's personal vanity. Moreover it was difficult for any good purpose to be served thereby, because the Act only permitted “inspection,” and did not allow of copies or extracts being taken from the books, with the result that the inspection was only good as far as the information could be retained in the memory of the person inspecting. As previously explained in connection with Section 17, this power of individual inspection is now limited to a member's own account, and the book containing the names of the members. The provisions of the present Act are considered to be superior to those of the former Act, for the following reasons:—

(1) They prevent the use of the right of inspection by an individual who seeks knowledge only from interested motives, and with a view to creating a disturbance in the society.

(2) Wherever there is real cause for inquiry, as evidenced by the desire of ten members, such members can ensure a thorough and adequate inspection being made by making application to the Registrar in form provided (see Form L, Treasury Regulations, page 145).

(3) The Registrar will, on receipt of the said application, and on being satisfied that the applicants have made out a good case, select some competent accountant or actuary to make a special examination of the society's books with reference to any matter named by the applicants.

(4) The inspector appointed by the Registrar will have full power to make copies of any books of the society, and to take extracts therefrom.

(5) The cost of such inspection will be defrayed by the applicants, or out of the funds of the society, or by the members or officers thereof, in such proportions as the Registrar may direct.

(6) The results of such inspections will be communicated by the Registrar to the society and to the applicants.

SECTION 19.—Banking by Societies.

Clause (1). No society can carry on the business of banking while it has any withdrawable capital.

Clause (2). A society which has only transferable capital may carry on banking business if power is taken in its rules for that purpose. In all cases where a banking business is carried on, a statement in the following form must be made out on the first Monday in February and August each year, and hung in a conspicuous position in its registered office:—
Form of Statement to be made out by a Society carrying on the Business of Banking.

1. Capital of the society:—
   (a) Nominal amount of each share;
   (b) Number of shares issued;
   (c) Amount paid up on shares.

2. Liabilities of the society on the 1st day of January (or July) last previous:—
   (a) On judgments;
   (b) On specialty;
   (c) On notes or bills;
   (d) On simple contract;
   (e) On estimated liabilities.

3. Assets of the society on the same date:—
   (a) Government or other securities (stating them);
   (b) Bills of exchange and promissory notes;
   (c) Cash at the bankers;
   (d) Other securities.

Clause 3. The taking of small deposits, or what is more commonly known as a Penny Bank business, is permitted by this clause, and is held not to be included in the business of general banking, which is prohibited to societies which have withdrawable capital.

The conditions relating to deposits are slightly altered by the present Act. Under the Act of 1876 not more than five shillings could be taken in any one payment, now a deposit may be made of any sum not exceeding ten shillings in any one payment, but the total amount which may be held by any one depositor must not exceed £20. No society which takes such deposits shall make any payment of withdrawable capital while any claim due on account of any such deposit is unsatisfied. The following are suitable bye-laws and forms for a Penny Bank Department:—

Model Regulations and Forms for a Penny Bank.

The.....................................................Co-operative Society Limited.

1. Deposits may be received either from members or non-members.

2. Every depositor shall pay threepence for a deposit book containing a printed copy of these regulations, in which all deposits or withdrawals shall be entered.

3. No person shall deposit more than ten shillings in any one payment, nor have more than £20 on deposit at the same time.

4. Interest at the rate of £... per cent per annum shall be paid on each sum of not less than four shillings continuing on deposit for not less than three months reckoning from the... in each year.
5. A sum not above £ can be withdrawn upon two clear days’ previous notice, and a sum above £ on a notice of days previous.

6. A penny receipt stamp shall be attached at the cost of the depositors on withdrawals of £2 and upwards.

7. No money shall be received or paid without the production of the deposit book; and depositors must attend personally, if possible, when any money is to be withdrawn.

8. If a deposit book is filled with entries it shall be delivered to the secretary, that the balance may be transferred to another book, for which the depositors shall pay threepence.

9. Deposits are received upon the express condition that no writing or mark shall be made in the deposit book except by the secretary of the society or some person acting under his authority, and that if any writing or mark is so made it shall in no way affect the society.

10. The deposit book must be preserved intact, and if lost, torn, or cut, shall be replaced at the cost of the depositor, and when an account is closed must be given up.

I have read, and assent to the above regulations.

SECTION 20.—Documents.

This Section relates only to the forms of returns and documents required for the purposes of this Act, which are to be made in form prescribed by the Registrar.
PRIVILEGES OF SOCIETIES.

SECTION 21.—Incorporation.

The registration of a society makes it a body corporate by the name described in the acknowledgment of registry, by which it may sue and be sued with perpetual succession and a common seal, and limited liability, and vests in the society any property held by trustees for the society.

SECTION 22.—Rules Binding on Members.

The rules of a society are binding on all members thereof, or persons claiming through such members to the same extent as if each member had subscribed his name and affixed his seal thereto. But a society registered at the time when the Act comes into operation, or the members thereof, may respectively exercise any power given by the Act and not made to depend on the provisions of its rules, notwithstanding any provision contained in any rule thereof registered before this Act was passed.

SECTION 23.—Debts Due from Members.

Clause (1). Gives power to a registered society to sue its members in the County Court for debt owing by them.

Clause (2). Gives the society a lien on the shares of a member for any debt due to it by him, and authorises the society to set off such shares towards the payment of such debt.

SECTION 24.—Income Tax.

A registered society is exempt from charge to Income Tax under Schedules C and D* unless it sells to persons not members thereof, and the number of its shares is limited either by its rules or its practice.

Under the Act of 1876, there were no conditions attached to this exemption, but the Customs and Inland Revenue Act of 1880 made an alteration in the law, and provided that where societies made profits out of persons who were not members, and at the same time closed their list of shareholders and ceased to issue new shares —thus preventing these persons from deriving the advantages of membership wherever they were desirous of so doing—in such cases the societies practising such methods should not be exempt from charge to Income Tax on the profits of their trade, but should be liable to be charged on the total profits of the society. It will be noticed that the provisions of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act of 1880 have been introduced into the Industrial and Provident Societies Act. This will, however, make no difference to societies, as they have been working under these conditions since 1880. It may be considered a reasonable restriction, because so long as a society exists for the public good and admits to its membership all who are anxious to take advantage of the benefits which it may render, it is exempt from any charge upon its profits; but, on the other hand, if a society becomes a close and limited body of self-interested people, anxious to make profit out of other persons in order to divide such profits amongst a limited number, then it becomes a trading organisation pure and simple, and cannot be said to be unfairly treated when charged with Income Tax on its profits.

It should be observed that the phrase "and the number of its shares is limited" does not mean the restriction of any individual to hold more than a fixed number of shares, but refers to the number of shares to be issued by the society as a whole; therefore so long as a society places no restriction on the admission of new members, the number of its shares is not limited but is constantly increased.

Section 25.—The Power of Nomination.

[This section is rescinded except for nominations made before January 1st, 1914.]

Clause (1). Provides that a member of a registered society may during his lifetime nominate any person or persons to whom his property in the society shall be transferred at his decease, provided the amount credited to him in the books of the society does not then exceed one hundred pounds (£100) sterling.

Clause (2). Any such nomination may be revoked during the lifetime of the member, in a manner similar to that in which it has been made, but is not revocable by the will of the nominator, or any codicil thereto.

Clause (3). The society is required to keep a book for recording such nominations and revocations.

The power of nomination has been extended so as to allow of more than one person being nominated. The Act of 1876 permitted nomination to "any person"; the present Act extends it to "any person or persons," and also permits of the division of the property amongst the nominees in any proportion desired by the nominator, provided that such property does not exceed £100 at the time of making the nomination.

SECTION 5, AMENDMENT ACT, 1913.—THE POWER OF NOMINATION.

Clause 1.—(1) Provides that a member of a registered society may during his lifetime nominate any person or persons to whom his property in the society shall be transferred at his decease. If on the death of the nominator the sum exceeds £100 the nomination is valid to the extent of £100, and the balance may be dealt with under the will of the nominator or as an intestacy.

(2) Any such nomination may be revoked or varied by a subsequent nomination or by any similar document under the hand of the nominator but shall not be revocable by the will of the nominator or by any codicil thereto.

(3) The society is required to keep a book for recording such nominations or revocations.

(4) The marriage of a member shall operate as a revocation of any nomination made by him before such marriage.

SECTION 26.—Proceedings on the Death of a Nominator.

When proof has been furnished to the committee of a society of the death of a nominator, the committee is required, subject to the limitations contained in Section 5 (1) of the Amendment Act of 1913, either to transfer or pay over to the person or persons mentioned in the nomination the property in proportion as stated therein. But if the total property of the nominator in the society at the time of his death exceeds £80, the committee shall, before making any payment, require production of a receipt from the Commissioners of Inland Revenue in regard to the succession or legacy duty payable thereon, or otherwise a certificate stating that no such duty is payable.

SECTION 5, AMENDMENT ACT, 1913.

Clause 2.—(2) Provides that sums nominated to a person under 16 years of age may be paid to a parent or guardian of the nominee.
Section 27.—Power of Committee to Distribute in Cases of Intestacy.

Clause (1). If any member dies intestate, and without nomination, and his property in the society at the time of his death does not exceed in the whole one hundred pounds (£100), the committee have power to distribute the property of the deceased in the society among such persons as appear to them, on such evidence as they may deem satisfactory, to be entitled by law to receive the same, without requiring letters of administration to be taken out by any of the relatives of the deceased, subject in all cases where the property exceeds eighty pounds (£80), to the obtaining from the Commissioners of Inland Revenue a receipt or certificate as specified in regard to a nomination.

Clause (2). If a member who dies intestate is illegitimate and leaves no widow, widower, or issue, the committee can only deal with the property by direction of the Treasury.

Before any payment is made to the representatives of a member who dies without having made a nomination or will, the committee of a society should demand the fullest information in regard to the number of relatives and their respective degrees of relationship to the deceased, and if they have reason to believe that such information is unreliable, they should refuse to make any payment, and compel the parties to take out letters of administration. Committees of societies or their officials should never make themselves parties to any family arrangements in regard to the division of the property of intestates, but should always insist on paying the moneys to the persons entitled by law to receive the same in such proportion as they are entitled to claim.

Section 28.—Probate Duty where the Whole Estate exceeds One Hundred Pounds.

By the Provident Nominations and Small Intestacies Act, 1883, it was provided that where the whole personal or movable estate of a deceased member, including his interest in the society, exceeds one hundred pounds, his property in the society shall be liable to probate duty; and the committee may, before paying over the money to the nominee or next of kin, require a statutory declaration by the claimant to the effect that the total personal or movable estate of the deceased does not, after deduction of debts and funeral expenses, exceed the value of one hundred pounds.

The foregoing section has now been repealed by Section 6 of the Amendment Act.
SECTION 6, AMENDMENT ACT, 1913.

Clause (1) Provides that if the principal value of the deceased's estate, including all his property, exceeds £100, moneys which he may have in the society may be liable to estate duty as part of the amount on which that duty is charged, and the committee before making any transfer or payment of such moneys may require a statutory declaration by the claimant that such principal value, including the money in the society does not after deduction of debts and funeral expenses exceed £100.

SECTION 29.—Insane Members.

This section provides that where a member is insane, and no committee or trustee of his property has been appointed, the committee of a society may, when it is proved to their satisfaction that it is just and expedient to do so, pay the property of such member to any person whom they shall judge proper to receive the same on his behalf.

This is a new feature in the law relating to Industrial and Provident Societies, which will doubtless be fully appreciated by those whose knowledge and experience extends to the numerous cases where the head of a family holding shares in a society becomes insane, and is thereby rendered incapable of dealing with his shares or of giving a legal receipt for the same. Owing to the expense necessary for putting in motion the machinery of the Lunacy Laws, it was often impracticable for the family of a working man who became insane to take legal means in order to obtain his shares for the purpose of his maintenance. Hence societies had frequently to run considerable risk by permitting the relatives to withdraw money on account of the insane member although they could not give a valid and legal receipt.

SECTION 30.—Payments to persons apparently entitled are valid.

All payments or transfers made under Sections 26, 27, and 29 are valid and effectual against any demand made upon the committee or society by any other person.

The following general remarks apply to the administration of Sections 25, 26, 27, 29, and 30:

(1) Form of nomination and revocation.—The following form of nomination and revocation has been arranged to meet the requirements of the new Act. To avoid complications and uncertainty all societies are advised to adopt it. Books containing nomination forms can be obtained on application to the Co-operative Union, Manchester. They are published in two sizes, viz., for large societies—books containing 500 forms, price 8s. 6d. per book; for smaller societies—books containing 100 forms, 3s. 6d. per book.

Wife, brother or sister, and children of a deceased brother or sister .......... Up to £500, all to wife; all above the first £500, in each case, half to wife, one-fourth to brother or sister, one-fourth to deceased brother's or sister's children per stirpes.

Brother or sister, and children of a deceased brother or sister ................ Half to brother or sister, half to children of deceased brother or sister per stirpes.

Grandfather, no nearer relation ........... All to grandfather.

* That is, taking individually, and not by representation. Thus, if A die, leaving three brothers or sisters, they each take an equal part of his effects in his or her own right. But if either of them die, leaving children, his children would take his share per stirpes, that is through him, and not in their own rights.

By the Act 19 & 20 Vict., cap. 94, all special local customs relating to the estates of intestates are abolished so far as they affect personal property.

His movable estate is divided in the following proportions—

Wife .................................................. Half to wife, other half to deceased’s next-of-kin.

Wife and child, or children ..................... One-third to wife, remaining two-thirds to child, or among children equally.

Wife and children, and issue of predeceasing children ........................................... One-third to wife, one-third to children equally, and the remaining third between the children and the issue of the predeceasing children—the children taking per capita, the latter per stirpes.*

Wife and grandchildren .......................... Half to wife, and half to grandchildren equally among them.

Wife, and his children by former marriages ... One-third to wife, two-thirds to children equally.

Wife, and her children by last and prior marriages ......................................................... One-third to wife, remaining two-thirds to deceased’s children.

Children .............................................. Whole to children.

Children, and issue of predeceasing children . Half to children, remaining half between children per capita, and issue per stirpes.

Grandchildren ...................................... Equally to all.

Children by two or more marriages .......... Equally to all.

Father ................................................. Whole to father.

Mother ............................................... One-third to mother, other two-thirds to next-of-kin.

Father and mother ................................. Whole to father.

Father and mother, and brothers and sisters . Half to father, half to brothers and sisters equally.

Mother, and brothers and sisters .............. One-third to mother, remaining two-thirds to brothers and sisters.

Father, mother, brothers, or sisters, and issue of deceased brothers or sisters ............. Half to father, half to brothers and sisters per capita, and issue per stirpes.

Mother, brothers, or sisters, and issue of deceased brothers or sisters ....................... One-third to mother, remaining two-thirds as in last example.

Father and mother, and their grandchildren .. Half to father, other half to grandchildren equally.

Mother, and her grandchildren .................. One-third to mother, other two-thirds to grandchildren equally.

Father, mother, children, and grandchildren of deceased brothers or sisters .................. Half to father, other half between children per capita, and grandchildren per stirpes.

* Per capita, i.e., by the head; per stirpes, by descent, i.e., through their parent and not in their own right. Where property divides per capita, it is divided into as many shares as there are children; where per stirpes the share which would have fallen to the predeceasing parent if alive is divided equally among his children.

SECTION 31.—Transfer of Stock.

If the society should hold any stock in the Bank of England or Ireland (which cannot be held in its corporate name), and any difficulties arise in obtaining a transfer from the persons in whose name it stands as trustees, facilities are given for appointing new trustees.

SECTION 32.—Membership of Minors.

A minor may become legally a member if not under 16, and do all acts accordingly, except that he cannot be member of the committee, trustee, manager, or treasurer. He is not disqualified from being secretary.
Section 33.—Commercial Instruments.

Promissory notes and bills of exchange made, accepted, or endorsed on behalf or on account of the society, by any person acting under its authority, are to be deemed to be made, or accepted, or endorsed on behalf of the society.

That is to say, the society, not the persons signing individually, will be liable.

Section 34.—Register of Members and Shares.

Any register or list of members or shares kept by the society is made prima facie evidence of any of the following particulars entered therein:

The names, addresses, and occupations of the members; the number of shares held by them respectively; the numbers of such shares, if they are distinguished by numbers; and the amount paid or agreed to be considered as paid thereon.

The date at which a member becomes and when he ceased to be a member.

The importance of keeping a correct register or list of members should not be overlooked by societies. In the event of any claim being made by a member on the society or by the society against a member, the register containing the particulars above-mentioned can be produced as legal evidence in support of the society.

Section 35.—Contracts.

This section contains a series of provisions, of which the effect is—

(a) To declare contracts under the seal of a society binding on it wherever a contract under the seal of a private person would be binding on him;

(b) To provide that in any case where private persons could legally bind or unbind themselves by a writing signed by them, not under seal, or by word of mouth, a society may legally bind or unbind itself by a writing signed or words spoken by any person acting under its expressed or implied authority;

(c) To make a statement that the person who signs any such writing holds any office in the society proof that he did then hold it, unless the contrary is shown.

When a society makes an agreement under seal a 10s. stamp is required to render it legal. Previous to the passing of the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1876, it was not permitted to societies to enter into agreements or contracts except under seal, although joint stock companies by their Act of 1867 were empowered to make a binding agreement in writing. It is now legal and binding for societies to make contracts in any manner in which such contracts may be made by individuals, and there is no necessity to use the seal of the society in connection with such documents.

Sections 36 and 37.—Holding of Land and Provision as to Copyholds.

Land.—A society, if its rules do not forbid it, may acquire in its own name lands of any tenure, and may freely deal with them or any buildings thereon.

Copyholds may be held by a society in its own name, if the lord of the manor will agree; or, if not, the society may require him to admit any number of trustees, not exceeding three, on payment of the fines, fees, and other dues payable on the admission of a single tenant.

Section 38.—Investments by Societies.

(1) A registered society may invest any part of its capital in or upon any security authorised by its rules, and also, if its rules do not forbid it—

(a) In or upon any security in which trustees may invest, and

(b) In or upon any security authorised by or under any Act of Parliament passed or to be passed of any local authority as defined by Section 34 of the Local Loans Act, 1875 [38 and 39 Vict., c. 83], and

(c) In the shares or on the security of any Industrial and Provident Society, Building Society, Joint Stock Company, or company incorporated by Act of Parliament or by Charter, provided that no investment be made in the shares of any society or company other than one with limited liability; and

(d) In any certified savings bank or a post office savings bank (see Section 39); and

(e) In advances to members (see Section 40).

(2) A society making such investment shall be deemed to be "a person" within the meaning of the Companies Acts, and of the Building Societies Acts.

(3) Any investments made before the passing of this Act, which would have been valid if this Act had then been in force, are ratified and confirmed.
SECTION 39.—Power to Invest in Savings Banks.

If a society is not chargeable to Income Tax under the provisions of Section 24 of this Act, it may invest any part of its capital or funds in any Savings Bank certified under the Trustee Savings Banks Act, 1863, or in a post office savings bank.

SECTION 40.—Advances to Members.

A society may make advances of money to its members on the security of real or personal property, or if the society is registered to carry on banking business it may take such security as is customary in such business.

With reference to Sections 38, 39, and 40, it may be useful to direct attention to the increased powers conferred on societies in regard to investment of capital.

1) A society may now invest in or upon any security authorised by its rules. This provision practically gives unlimited power to a society to invest in any manner prescribed by its rules, provided that such investment is made only on a legal security.

2) Clauses (a) and (b) of Section 38 extend the power of investment to include all securities in which trustees may invest, and also securities authorised by any Act of Parliament of any local authority as defined by Section 34 of the Local Loans Act, 1875.

3) Clause (c) re-enacts the provisions of the Act of 1876, by which societies may invest in any society registered under this Act, or under the Building Societies Acts, or of any company registered under the Companies Acts, or incorporated by Act of Parliament, or by Charter.

4) No investment can be made in the shares of any society or company other than one with limited liability.

5) As it is possible that some societies may have invested money in a manner not permitted by the previous Acts, it will no doubt be satisfactory to them to know that all investments made before the passing of this Act, which would have been valid if this Act had been in force, are now ratified and made legal.

6) Another extension of the power of investment is that societies which are not chargeable to Income Tax under Schedules
C and D, may invest in any Savings Bank certified under the Trustee Savings Bank Act, 1863, or in a Post-office Savings Bank.

(7) If a society desires to take advantage of the power given it by the Act, of making advances of money to its members on the security of real or personal property, it is necessary that provision should be made in the rules to that effect, as the Act makes this power to depend on the rules.

The following extracts from the Acts of Parliament referred to will no doubt be found useful:

(1)—Extract from the Trustees Consolidation Act, 1893, 56 & 57, c. 53.

1. A trustee may, unless expressly forbidden by the instrument (if any) creating the trust, invest any trust funds in his hands in manner following, that is to say:

(a) In any of the Parliamentary Stocks or Public Funds or Government Securities of the United Kingdom;

(b) On Real or heritable Securities in Great Britain or Ireland;

(c) In the Stock of the Bank of England or the Bank of Ireland;

(d) In India Three-and-a-half per cent Stock and India Three per cent Stock, or in any other Capital Stock which may at any time hereafter be issued by the Secretary of State in Council of India, under the authority of Act of Parliament, and charged on the revenues of India;

(e) In any Securities the interest of which is or shall be guaranteed by Parliament;

(f) In consolidated Stock created by the Metropolitan Board of Works, or by the London County Council, or in Debenture Stock created by the Receiver for the Metropolitan Police District;

(g) In the Debenture or Rentcharge or Guaranteed or Preference Stock of any railway company in Great Britain or Ireland incorporated by special Act of Parliament, and having during each of the ten years last past before the date of investment paid a dividend at the rate of not less than three per centum per annum on its ordinary stock;

(h) In the stock of any railway or canal company in Great Britain or Ireland whose undertaking is leased in perpetuity or for a term of not less than two hundred years at a fixed rental to any such railway company as is mentioned in sub-section (g) either alone or jointly with any other railway company;
(i) In the Debenture Stock of any railway company in India the interest on which is paid or guaranteed by the Secretary of State in Council of India;

(j) In the "B" Annuities of the Eastern Bengal, the East Indian and the Scinde Punjaub and Delhi Railways, and any like annuities which may at any time hereafter be created on the purchase of any other railway by the Secretary of State in Council of India, and charged on the revenues of India, and which may be authorised by Act of Parliament to be accepted by trustees in lieu of any stock held by them in the purchased railway, or upon the capital of which the interest is so guaranteed;

(k) In the stock of any railway company in India upon which a fixed or minimum dividend in sterling is paid or guaranteed by the Secretary of State in Council of India, also in Deferred Annuities comprised in the register of holders of Annuity Class D and Annuities comprised in the register of annuities Class C of the East Indian Railway Company;

(l) In the Debenture or Guaranteed or Preference Stock of any company in Great Britain or Ireland, established for the supply of water for profit, and incorporated by special Act of Parliament or by Royal Charter, and having during each of the ten years last past before the date of investment paid a dividend of not less than five pounds per centum on its ordinary stock;

(m) In nominal or inscribed stock issued, or to be issued, by the corporation of any municipal borough, having according to the returns of the last census prior to the date of investment a population exceeding fifty thousand, or by any county council, under the authority of any Act of Parliament or Provisional Order;

(n) In nominal or inscribed stock issued, or to be issued, by any Commissioners incorporated by Act of Parliament for the purpose of supplying water, and having a compulsory power of levying rates over an area having, according to the returns of the last census prior to the date of investment a population exceeding fifty thousand, provided that during each of the ten years last past before the date of investment the rates levied by such Commissioners shall not have exceeded eighty per centum of the amount authorised by law to be levied;

(o) In any of the stocks, funds, or securities, for the time being authorised for the investment of cash under the control or subject to the order of the Court; and may also from time to time vary any such investment.

2.—(1) A trustee may under the powers of this Act invest in any of the securities mentioned or referred to in Section 1 of this Act, notwithstanding that the same may be redeemable, and that the price exceeds the redemption value.
(2) Provided that a trustee may not under the powers of this Act purchase at a price exceeding its redemption value any stock mentioned or referred to in sub-sections (g), (i), (k), (l), and (m), of Section 1 which is liable to be redeemed within fifteen years of the date of purchase at par or at some other fixed rate, or purchase any such stock as is mentioned or referred to in the sub-sections aforesaid, which is liable to be redeemed at par or at some other fixed rate, at a price exceeding fifteen per centum above par or such other fixed rate.

(3) A trustee may retain until redemption any redeemable stock, fund, or security which may have been purchased in accordance with the powers of this Act.

3. Every power conferred by the preceding Sections shall be exercised according to the discretion of the trustees but subject to any consent required by the instrument, if any, creating the trust with respect to the investment of the trust funds.

4. The preceding Sections shall apply as well to trusts created before as to trusts created after the passing of this Act, and the powers thereby conferred shall be in addition to the powers conferred by the instrument, if any, creating the trust.

5.—(1) A trustee having power to invest in real securities, unless expressly forbidden by the instrument creating the trust, may invest and shall be deemed to have always had the power to invest—

(a) on mortgage of property held for an unexpired term of not less than two hundred years, and not subject to a reservation of rent greater than a shilling a year, or to any right of redemption or to any condition for re-entry, except for non-payment of rent; and

(b) on any charge, or upon mortgage of any charge, made under the Improvement of Land Act, 1864.

(2) A trustee having power to invest in the mortgages or bonds of any railway company or of any other description of company may, unless the contrary is expressed in the instrument authorising the investment, invest in the debenture stock of a railway company or such other company as aforesaid.

(3) A trustee having power to invest money in the debentures or debenture stock of any railway or other company may, unless the contrary is expressed in the instrument authorising the investment, invest in any nominal debentures or nominal debenture stock issued under the Local Loans Act, 1875.

(4) A trustee having power to invest money in securities in the Isle of Man, or in securities of the government of a colony, may, unless the contrary is expressed in the instrument authorising the investment, invest in any securities of the Government of the Isle of Man, under the Isle of Man Loans Act, 1880.
(5) A trustee having a general power to invest trust moneys in or upon the security of shares, stock, mortgages, bonds, or debentures of companies incorporated by or acting under the authority of an Act of Parliament, may invest in, or upon the security of, mortgage debentures duly issued under and in accordance with the provisions of the Mortgage Debenture Act, 1865.

6. A trustee having power to invest in the purchase of land or on mortgage of land may invest in the purchase, or on mortgage of any land, notwithstanding the same is charged with a rent under the powers of the Public Money Drainage Acts, 1846 to 1856, or the Landed Property Improvement (Ireland) Act, 1847, or by an absolute order made under the Improvement of Land Act, 1864, unless the terms of the trust expressly provide that the land to be purchased or taken in mortgage shall not be subject to any such prior charge.

7.—(1) A trustee, unless authorised by the terms of his trust, shall not apply for or hold any certificate to bearer issued under the authority of any of the following Acts, that is to say:—

(a) The India Stock Certificate Act, 1863;
(b) The National Debt Act, 1870;
(c) The Local Loans Act, 1875;
(d) The Colonial Stock Act, 1877.

(2)—Definition of a "Local Authority," on whose Security an Investment may be made.

LOCAL LOANS ACT, 1875.

[38 AND 39 VICT., C. 83, SEC. 34.]

For the purposes of this Act—

"Prescribed" means prescribed by any Act passed either before or after the passing of this Act authorising a local authority to borrow money;

"Local authority" means the justices of any county, liberty, riding, parts, or divisions of a county in general or quarter sessions assembled, the council of any municipal borough, also any authority whatsoever having power to levy a rate, as in this Act defined, also any prescribed authority;

"Municipal borough" means any borough for the time being subject to the Act of the session of the fifth and sixth years of the reign of King William the Fourth, chapter seventy-six, intituled
"An Act to provide for the regulation of municipal corporations in England and Wales," and any Acts amending the same;

A "rate" means a rate the proceeds of which are applicable to public local purposes and leviable on the basis of an assessment in respect of property, and includes any sum which, though obtained in the first instance by a precept, certificate, or other document requiring payment from some authority or officer, is or can be ultimately raised out of a rate, and the levy of a rate includes the issue and enforcement of any such precept, certificate, or document as aforesaid, and expressions relating to the levy and the assessment and making of a rate shall be construed accordingly;

"Local rate" means any rate as before defined which a local authority have power to levy or charge by way of mortgage or otherwise;

"Security" means any debenture, debenture stock, annuity certificate, coupon, or stock certificate to bearer issued under this Act;

"Person" includes a body of persons corporate or unincorporate;

"Executors and administrators" includes successors.

(3) — Form of Mortgage recommended to be used in making Advances to Members on the Security of Freehold Property.

This Indenture, made the ......................... day of ................. 19..., between .....................................................................................

of the first part, and the..............................................................
Society Limited of the second part, hereinafter respectively called "the mortgagor" (which word includes his or her heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns) and "the society," Witnesses that, in consideration of the sum of .............................................. sterling advanced to the mortgagor by the society, the receipt whereof the mortgagor hereby acknowledges, the mortgagor hereby covenants with the society—

1. To repay the sum so advanced to such person or persons, or at such place as the committee of management of the society for the time being (hereinafter called "the committee") appoint from time to time;

2. To make such payment by instalments of not less than such sum as is mentioned in the first schedule hereto, payable with interest at such rate not exceeding £5 per cent per annum, calculated on the sum due from such time as is thereby specified, and if no other time is specified, from the last of such payments;

3. To pay (a) all costs or fines (if any) which may be incurred under the rules of the society in consequence of any default in making such payment as aforesaid; and (b) all such further sums (if any) as under the said rules may become due in respect of the expenses of the building department of the society, or in respect of any ground rent charged or apportioned by the committee upon the property comprised in this Indenture; and

4. To make all such payments at and in such time and manner as the rules of the society direct, or in default of such direction as the committee appoint, until the said advance is fully repaid.
And this Indenture also witnesses that for the considerations aforesaid the mortgagor, as beneficial owner, hereby grants to the society and its assigns the hereditaments specified in the second schedule hereeto, as the same are delineated upon the map or plan (if any) included therein or thereby referred to, to hold the same unto and to the use of the society and its assigns; Provided that if the mortgagor repays to the society the sum advanced by it as aforesaid, by instalments of such amount and so paid as aforesaid, with interest after the rate and calculated as aforesaid, upon so much of the said sum as remains for the time being unpaid, and all such further sum or sums (if any) as may become due to the society under any covenant or agreement herein contained, the society shall at any time thereafter, on the request and at the cost of the mortgagor, endorse upon his Indenture a receipt in full for the said principal sum and interest hereby intended to be secured, signed in the manner specified by Schedule III. of the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893.

And it is hereby agreed and declared that all statements made on the minutes of the society, or of any committee thereof, relating to the exercise of the powers possessed by it as mortgagee, shall, as respects purchasers, lessees, or other persons dealing with the society, be binding and conclusive on the society and the mortgagor. And that the powers given by Part iv. of the Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881, to a mortgagee shall be exercisable by the society upon any default in the payment of any instalment due under this Indenture, whereupon the said mortgage money shall be taken to have "become due" within the meaning of Section 19 (1, 1) of the said Act. And that the mortgagor shall keep every building comprised in this Indenture in good and tenantable repair to the satisfaction of any surveyor whom the committee appoint to inspect the same; And shall defray the cost of keeping the same insured in the name of the society or their assigns against damage by fire in such company, society, or office as the committee think fit in the sum of pounds sterling, and shall pay the cost of such insurance and the annual renewals thereof on or before the ninth day of the month next after the same is due, or in default thereof shall pay a fine after such rate on the sum insured as is mentioned in the first schedule hereto, and if no other rate is mentioned, at the rate of 1s. in the £; And shall give the committee notice in writing of any trade or manufacturing process intended to be carried on, and of every stove, furnace, or other article intended to be erected on any part of the premises, and of every other act or thing intended to be done on any part of the same which may in anywise affect the validity of the policy of insurance before the same respectively is commenced, erected, or done; and shall not carry on, erect, or do the same respectively if forbidden by the committee, nor otherwise than in accordance with its directions; And that in default of compliance with these provisions the mortgagor shall be subject to a fine of five shillings for every week from the commencement of such trade, erection, or other act until the consent of the committee thereto has been obtained; and that the committee may increase the amount of the insurance of the premises to any amount they think fit, in consequence of any such trade, erection, or act, and may pay any additional sum for such increased insurance; And that if the mortgagor make default in putting or keeping any such building in such repair or in keeping the same insured to such extent, or on producing such policy in receipt on demand as aforesaid, the society or their assigns may put and keep in such repair and so insured as aforesaid any such building; And that the mortgagor or the assigns of the mortgagor shall, on demand, repay to the society or their assigns every sum of money expended by them for any purpose hereinbefore mentioned; And that all sums so paid by the society shall be an additional charge upon the hereditaments hereby conveyed, with interest after the rate aforesaid, until the same are fully paid; And that in case of damage by fire the committee shall receive the amount payable in respect of the damage sustained from such insurance office or company aforesaid; and a receipt for the same, signed by the chairman of the committee and countersigned by the secretary of the society, shall be a sufficient discharge to such office or company for all moneys thereon expressed to be received; And the committee shall have full power to settle with such office or company any question relating to such assurance, and fix the amount to be paid in respect of any damage done to the premises, or make such arrangements with the office or company as to the rebuilding or repairing the premises, or relating thereto, as they think fit; And may, at their discretion, either lay out the money received from such office or company in repairing the damage done to the premises, or apply the same or any part thereof in or towards payment of the amount then due under this agreement, the Society hereby agreeing to pay the surplus (if any) to the mortgagor as personal estate.

Provided nevertheless, and the society hereby agrees that it will not exercise the powers in the said Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881, contained, of entering into possession of receipts of rents and profits, or of leasing, or sale, unless and until default has been made in payment of some instalment of the principal and interest hereby secured, for three calendar months after the same has become due, or the mortgagor has been adjudged bankrupt or entered into some arrangement for liquidation or composition with creditors, or should, without the consent of the committee in writing, pull down, remove, or carry away, or cause or procure to be pulled down, removed, or carried away, or should otherwise damage any building forming part of the buildings standing on the premises hereby conveyed.

In witness whereof the mortgagor has herto set his hand and seal, and the seal of the society, attested as is required by the rules thereof, has been affixed the year and day first aforesaid.

Section 41.—Societies Members of other Bodies Corporate may vote by Proxy.

A society which has invested in the shares or on the security of any other body corporate may appoint as proxy any one of its members, although such member is not personally a shareholder of such other body corporate.

This section embodies the provisions of the Companies Clauses Consolidation Act, 1888, which enables societies to overcome the difficulty they formerly experienced in regard to attendance and voting at the meetings of other bodies corporate in which they had funds invested. Formerly, in regard to all bodies corporate, such as railway and other companies which had adopted the Companies Clauses, a society could only exercise its voting power by appointing as its proxy some person who was himself a shareholder in the body corporate in which the funds were invested and to which the voting power related. In view of the large sums belonging to co-operators which have found investment in railway and other companies, it was considered to be a great injustice that societies could not be directly represented by proxies belonging to themselves, and of their own selection; therefore the Companies Clauses Consolidation Act of 1888 was passed to remedy this injustice, and its main provisions have been included in the present Act. The above-mentioned Act of 1888 provides forms for appointment of proxies. The full text is as follows:

Companies Clauses Consolidation Acts, 1888 and 1889.

Acts to amend the Companies Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, in respect to voting by Proxy.

(51 and 52 Vict., c. 48, and 52 and 53 Vict., c. 37.)

Be it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1. This Act may be cited as the Companies Clauses Consolidation Act, 1888, and the Companies Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, and this Act may be cited together as the Companies Clauses Consolidation Acts, 1845 and 1888; and this Act shall be construed together with the said Act as part thereof.
2. To section 76 of the Companies Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, the following words shall be added:—"Provided, that where the shareholder is a body corporate, the proxy may be any member of such body, though not personally a shareholder in the company."

3. Such a proxy shall, during the continuance of his appointment, be taken in virtue thereof to be a shareholder in the company to which his appointment relates, holding the number of shares held by the corporation by whom he is appointed, for all purposes except the transfer of any such share or the giving receipts for any dividend thereon.

4. The appointment may be made and revoked in the following form:—

FORMS OF PROXY PAPERS.

(1) General Appointment.

We, the , being a body corporate and one of the proprietors of the company, hereby appoint A.B., of , who is hereby certified to be a member of this corporation, to be our proxy, to vote in our name as he shall think proper upon any matter relating to the several undertakings proposed at any meeting of the said company to be held during the continuance of this appointment, and otherwise to be our representative in such company.

In witness whereof the common seal of the said corporation, attested as is required by its regulations, is hereto set this day of .

(2) Revocation of General Proxy.

We, the , hereby revoke the appointment of , who is our proxy in the company, made by an instrument under our common seal, and dated the day of .

In witness whereof the common seal of the said corporation, attested as is required by its regulations, is set hereto the day of .

(An instrument in this form shall not require any stamp.)
(3) Special Appointment.

We, the , being a body corporate, and one of the proprietors of the company, do hereby appoint A.B., of , who is hereby certified to be a member of this corporation, to vote in our name as he shall think proper upon any matter relating to the said undertaking proposed at the meeting of the proprietors of the said company, to be held on the day of next, or at any adjournment thereof.

In witness whereof the common seal of the said corporation, attested as required by its regulations, is set hereto this day of .

SECTION 42.—Body Corporate may hold Shares in a Society.

Any society, company, or other body corporate may hold shares by its corporate name in a society, if its regulations permit; but, except in the case of a society, may not hold more than £200.

SECTIONS 43, 44, 45, AND 46.—Mortgages and Receipts in Discharge.

(1) On the discharge of a mortgage, a receipt in full, signed by two members of the committee, and countersigned by the secretary of a registered society, endorsed on or annexed to any mortgage or assurance, shall vacate the said mortgage and vest the property therein comprised in the person entitled to the equity of redemption thereof without any formal reconveyance or surrender, and such receipt is exempt from stamp duty, provided it is made in the form prescribed by Form A of the third schedule to this Act, or in some other form specified in the registered rules of the society.

(2) If such mortgage has been registered or recorded, or is of copyholds or lands of customary tenure and is entered on any court rolls, the Registrar, recording officer, steward, or keeper of the register is required, under the conditions named in the Act, to acknowledge such receipt and to grant a certificate in accordance therewith, on payment of a fee of 2s. 6d.

IN SCOTLAND.

(1) A receipt given in one of the forms mentioned below, as prescribed in Schedule III. of this Act, if endorsed on or annexed to any security, such will effectively operate as a renunciation and discharge of security held by a society in connection with any heritable security, absolute conveyance, disposition, or other assurance, and will revest the property therein comprised in the person or persons entitled to the same, provided that in each case the form prescribed for that particular kind of security must be used and no other.

FORM B.—SCHEDULE III.

In the case of a heritable security other than by way of an ex-facie or other absolute conveyance:—

"The __________________ Limited, acknowledges to have received all moneys intended to be secured by the bond and disposition in security, dated the , and recorded on the in the register of Sasines for for the sum of £ granted by A. [insert name and designation] in favour of the said society.

Dated at this day of , one thousand nine hundred and

.................................................................) Members of the Committee.

.................................................................) Secretary."

To be recorded with warrant of registration on behalf of [the person or persons entitled].
FORM C.—SCHEDULE III.

In the case of a heritable security in the form of an _ex-facie_ or other absolute conveyance or disposition:—

"The Limited hereby acknowledges that the disposition (or other conveyance), dated the , and recorded the in the register of Sasines for [insert designation] (or by B [insert designation] with consent of A) in favour of the above-named society, was intended only as a security for a loan of £ granted to A by the said society, and for the interest, penalties, and others effecting thereto; and that all moneys intended to be thereby secured have been fully paid."

(To be completed and recorded as in Form B.)

FORM D.—SCHEDULE III.

In the case of a security or assurance other than a heritable security—

"The Limited, hereby acknowledges to have received all moneys intended to be secured by the within (or above) written deed."

(To be completed as in Form B.)

(Recipients in the Forms B, C, or D shall not require a testing or subscription clause).

(2) Each such receipt shall be registered in the appropriate register of Sasines, for which a fee not exceeding 5s. may be charged by the Registrar, and on such registration all property comprised in such receipt shall be vested in the persons entitled to the same without the necessity of any more formal deed. No stamp shall be payable on any such receipt.

GENERAL.—The power of a society to give such receipt extends also to the liquidator where a society is in liquidation.

SECTION 47.—Security by Officers.

_Security_ by a bond, with or without a surety, to such amount as the committee direct is to be given by every officer of the society if the rules require it, before entering on his office.

Forms of bond are provided in the third Schedule to this Act. Societies should see that due attention is given to this important matter.
Section 48.—Accounts of Officers.

Accounts are to be rendered by every officer as the rules direct. This section also applies to every servant of the society in receipt or charge of money.

Section 49.—Disputes.

Clause (1). A society may, by provision in its rules, determine in what manner disputes arising between a member, or a person who has for not more than six months ceased to be a member, and the society (or any officer thereof) shall be decided, and any decision made according to the rules of the society shall be binding on all parties without appeal, and shall not be removable into any court of law.

Clause (2). The society or other parties to any dispute may by consent of all the parties thereto refer such dispute to the Chief or Assistant Registrar, whose decision shall be binding in like manner as a decision made under the rules of the society.

Clause (5). If the rules contain no direction for the settlement of disputes, or where no decision is made in a dispute within forty days after the aggrieved person has made application for the matter to be dealt with under the rules of the society, such person may apply either to the county court or court of summary jurisdiction to determine the dispute.

Clause (6). The provisions of the Arbitration Act, 1889, do not apply to disputes under this Act.

As the object of this section is to prevent litigation between a society and its members, and to give a society the right to determine all disputes occurring under its rules, it is obviously of the utmost importance that societies should take full advantage of this privilege of settling their own affairs. This can only be done if provision is made in the rules for the purpose. In the absence of such provision in the rules the law courts have jurisdiction. Take, for instance, a case which occurs frequently—a society, according to conditions contained in its rules, suspends the right of withdrawal of share capital; a member disputes the power of the society to suspend the right of withdrawal, and enters an action in the County Court to compel the society to pay him his share capital. The society has a rule providing that all disputes, relating to matters arising out of the rules of the society, shall be settled by arbitration, and stating also how the arbitrators shall be appointed. The society, in reply to such action, refers to Section 49 of this Act, and produces a copy of its rules providing for the settlement of disputes, and claims that all such matters are outside the jurisdiction of the law courts. Neither the County Court nor the Court of Summary Jurisdiction can then take cognisance of such action.

The present Act extends the right of settlement to any such dispute which may arise with a person who is not a member, if such person has been a member at some time within the six months previous to the date of the dispute.

Section 50.—Inspection of Affairs by the Registrar.

Clause (1). Inspection of the affairs of a society may be ordered or a special meeting of the society may be called by the Registrar, with the consent of the Treasury, on the application of one-tenth of the whole number of members, if such number does not exceed one thousand, or of one hundred members in the case of a society exceeding one thousand members.

Clause (2). The application must be supported by evidence showing the reasons for requiring such inspection or special meeting.

Clause (4). All expenses of and incidental or preliminary to any such inspection or special meeting shall be paid as directed by the Registrar.

Section 51.—Definition of a Special Resolution.

A "special resolution" means a resolution passed by a majority of not less than three-fourths of such members, entitled to vote, as may have voted at a special general meeting, of which notice has been given according to the rules of the society, and which has been confirmed by a simple majority at a subsequent meeting similarly called, held not less than fourteen days nor more than one month from the date of the first meeting.

Sections 52, 53, and 54.—Change of Name: Amalgamation: Conversion.

By special resolution as above defined a society may—

1. Change its name, with the approval, in writing, of the Registrar;
2. Amalgamate with, or transfer its engagements to, any other society;
3. Convert itself into a Joint-stock Company: a copy of the resolution under the seal of the Registrar's office, if containing the particulars required to be contained in a memorandum of association, being declared to have the effect of such a memorandum duly signed and attested under the Act.

A resolution for converting a society into a company should name not less than seven persons as the first members of the company, and be accompanied by articles of association declaring all the members of the society to be members of the company. On registering these documents, duly stamped, the persons named and all other members of the society would be incorporated into a company by the name mentioned in the resolution.

CHANGE OF NAME. — When it is desired to change the name of a society, after the special resolution has been duly passed, application should be made to the Registrar (or to the Co-operative Union) for forms AA and AB (see pages 162 and 163), which must be filled up and sent (the former in duplicate) to the Registrar, who will, if there is no valid objection to the change, thereon signify his approval.

AMALGAMATION. — In the case of amalgamation of two or more societies, the resolutions to be passed will of course depend upon the conditions on which the societies agree to amalgamate; but, where no special circumstances arise, the following resolutions would generally meet the requirements of the case, and should be passed by the requisite majorities at two special meetings of each of the societies concerned:—

SUGGESTED RESOLUTIONS FOR AMALGAMATION.

This society and the........................................Limited shall be amalgamated on the conditions following:—

(1) The name of the amalgamated society shall be the ............................................................Limited.

(2) The rules of the society shall be the rules of the .............................................................Limited.

(3) All the members of each of the above-named societies at the time when this resolution is registered shall be members of the amalgamated society, each of whom respectively shall be credited in the books of the society with the like amounts of shares, share capital, loans, deposits, dividend and interest, as are standing to his or her credit in the books of the society of which he or she is a member at the date of such registration.

(4) The amalgamated society shall be credited with all the assets of each of the above-named societies at the date of the registration of this resolution, and shall undertake all the obligations affecting either of the said societies at such date.

When these special resolutions have been duly passed, the society should apply to the Registrar (or to the Co-operative Union) for Forms $AB$ and $AC$ (see pages 163, 164, and 165), which must be filled up and sent (the latter in duplicate) to the Registrar for registration.

Transfer of Engagements.—For a transfer of engagements, Forms $AB$, $AD$, and $AE$ (see pages 163, 164, and 165) must be obtained, and dealt with in manner above set forth.

Conversion into, or Amalgamation with, a Company.—For the purpose of conversion into, or amalgamation with, a company the following forms must be used:

For Conversion: Forms $AB$ and $AF$ (see pages 163 and 169).

For Amalgamation: Forms $AB$, $AC$, $AD$, and $AG$ (see pages 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, and 170).

The Treasury Regulations should be read carefully to ascertain which forms are required to be sent in duplicate.

In all cases of amalgamation under this Act, the property of the respective societies becomes vested in the amalgamated society without any form of conveyance other than the special resolution amalgamating the societies.

Section 55.—Conversion of a Company into a Society.

A company may be converted into a society by a special resolution passed as aforesaid, on observing the conditions and forms set forth in the Act.

Sections 58 and 59.—Dissolution of Societies.

A society may be dissolved—

1. By an order to wind up the society as companies may be wound up, but made by the county court in England or the sheriff’s court in Scotland.

2. By a resolution for a voluntary winding up, made as directed by the Companies Acts.

3. By an instrument of dissolution, signed by three-fourths of the members, made in Form $AH$ (see page 171), which can be obtained from the Registrar, or from the office of the Co-operative Union.

For a small society the instrument of dissolution will be the best and most economical method of winding-up, as all that is required is to obtain the signatures of three-fourths of the members; but larger societies, by reason of the difficulty of obtaining such signatures, will naturally be compelled to resort to the plan of winding-up by resolution.

The resolution for a voluntary winding-up may be either "special" or "extraordinary." The latter form is generally used in cases of emergency, where it is desirable to take prompt action to protect the property of the society in the interests of the members and the general body of creditors. In order to pass an extraordinary resolution it must be so defined on the notice calling the special meeting, and must be passed by a three-fourths majority as required in the case of a special resolution. An extraordinary resolution does not require the confirmation of a second special meeting. The notice of a meeting to pass an extraordinary resolution should take the following form:

..............................................................Society Limited.

NOTICE.

A special and extraordinary meeting of the society will be held at , at p.m. prompt.

BUSINESS.

To pass the following extraordinary resolution:

(1) That it has been proved to the satisfaction of the meeting that the society cannot by reason of its liabilities continue its business, and it is advisable to wind up the same.

(2) To appoint a liquidator.

(Signed).........................................................Secretary.

The extraordinary resolution, when duly passed, must be published in the Gazette for England, Scotland, or Ireland, as the case may be. For this purpose a form may be obtained from .............................................................. Such form must contain a copy of the resolution and be signed by a solicitor as a witness.

The Companies Acts 1862 to 1890 apply to the winding-up of societies, except that the term "Registrar" in such Acts shall have the meaning given to it by Section 79 of this Act.
SECTIO N 8, AMENDMENT ACT, 1913.—DISSOLUTION OR TRANSFER OF ENGAGEMENTS.

On dissolution or transfer of engagements, the society shall not be dissolved and registration of the society shall not be cancelled until a certificate signed by the liquidator or by the secretary or some other officer of the society approved by the Registrar, has been lodged with the Registrar, that all property vested in the society has been duly conveyed or transferred by the society to the persons entitled.

SECTION 60.—Liability of Members in Winding up.

(1) The liability of members on a winding-up order or voluntary liquidation is limited in all cases to the sum unpaid on the shares for which they are liable;

(2) If they have ceased to be members for more than a year, it is at an end;

(3) If they have been members within a year, it exists as to debts due when they ceased to be members, if their contributions are required to pay these debts;

(4) If they have withdrawn any shares within a year, it exists in respect to them, as to all debts due when the shares were withdrawn, if their contributions are required to pay these debts.

SECTION 61.—Provisions as to Instrument of Dissolution.

(1) The Instrument of Dissolution must be in Form AH (see page 171), and must state the liabilities and assets of the society; the number of members and nature of their interests; the claims of creditors and the provision made for them; and the intended appropriation of the property of the society.

(2) It must be supported by a statutory declaration in Form AI (see page 172), that the provisions of the Act have been complied with, made by the secretary and three members, who, if knowingly making a false declaration, will be guilty of a misdemeanour;

(3) It must be registered in the same manner as the rules, and will be acknowledged by the Registrar in Form AK (see page 173), and is then binding on all the members;

(4) Notice of it is to be given in the Gazette and some newspaper circulating in the county where the office of the society is situate in Form AL (see page 173), and proceedings may be taken within three months in the county court of the district, to set it aside;

(5) If set aside, the society is to give notice to the Registrar's office.
Sections 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, and 70.—
Offences and Penalties.

These sections relate to offences and penalties under the Act.

Ordinary offences, for which a penalty not exceeding £5 may be inflicted on the society or an officer or member guilty of the offence, are:

1. Failing to give any notice or send any return or document required by the Act;

2. Failing to do or allow to be done any act or thing which the society is required by this Act to do or allow to be done;

3. Wilfully neglecting or refusing to furnish information required for the purposes of this Act by the Chief Registrar or person appointed by him;

4. Making a false or insufficient return;

5. Carrying on banking business while the society has any withdrawable capital, or failing to make out the statement required to be kept by societies doing banking business;

6. Giving to any person a copy of any rules other than the registered rules for the time being, with intent to mislead and on the pretence that such are the existing rules of the society.

A special penalty, not exceeding £50 for each separate offence, is imposed on a society, or on its officers who commit the offence, for the undermentioned offences:

1. The wilful making or permitting any entry, erasure in, or omission from any balance sheet, contribution or collecting book, or return or document required under the Act, with intent to falsify it or evade any provision of the Act;

2. The using as the seal of the society any seal on which its name is not engraved;

3. The issuing, or authorising to be issued, any notice, advertisement, or other official publication, or bill of parcels, invoice, receipt, or letter of credit of the society, or signing or authorising to be signed on its behalf, any bill of exchange, promissory note, endorsement cheque, order for money or goods, or wherein its registered name is not mentioned. In addition to which, the person guilty of this default will incur a personal liability to pay any such bill of exchange, promissory note, cheque, or order for money or goods, if not duly met by the society.
It not infrequently happens that societies use billheads or stationery on which is printed an abbreviation or variation of their registered name. Such practice is clearly an offence under the Act, and should be at once discontinued, otherwise the societies may have to suffer severely for their neglect.

Section 64 deals more especially with fraud and misappropriation, and provides that if any person wilfully misapplies the property of a society, or obtains possession of such property by false representation or imposition, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £20, or, in default of payment, to three months' imprisonment.

Section 71.—Remuneration of County Court Officers.

This section provides for the scale of remuneration to be paid to county court officers, for the duties to be performed by them under this Act.

Section 72.—Public Auditors.

Provides for the appointment by the Treasury of a public auditor, who may be employed by societies at a rate of remuneration to be fixed by the Treasury.

Sections 73 and 74.—Fees and Regulations.

The Treasury, with the approval of Parliament, may from time to time make regulations as regards the forms to be used under this Act, and the fees to be paid in connection with such matters as are required to be transacted.

Section 75.—Evidence of Documents.

Every document bearing the stamp of the central office, or purporting to be signed by any registrar, inspector, or public auditor, shall be received in evidence without further proof.

Section 76.—Duties of the Registrars.

Sub-sections 6, 7, 8, and 9 of section 10 of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, are made to apply to the duties of the registrars in relation to industrial and provident societies. They are—

(6) The Chief Registrar shall every year lay before Parliament a report of his proceedings and of those of the Assistant Registrars, and of the principal matters transacted by him and them and of the valuations returned to or caused to be made by the Registrar during the year preceding.
(7) The Assistant Registrars shall, except as after provided, be subordinate to the Chief Registrar. They shall, within the countries for which they are respectively appointed, exercise all functions and powers by this Act given to the Registrar, and may also, by the written authority of the Chief Registrar, exercise such of the functions and powers by this Act given to the Chief Registrar as he shall from time to time delegate to them.

(8) Subject to any regulations to be made under this Act, the Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland respectively shall—

(a) Exercise all the functions and powers now vested in the registrars of friendly or building societies for Scotland and Ireland respectively, or as respects building societies and societies instituted for purposes of science, literature, or the fine arts, vested in Scotland in the Lord Advocate or his depute appointed to certify the rules of friendly societies there, or in Ireland in the barrister appointed to certify the rules of friendly societies there, and shall be entitled to receive all fees payable to such Registrar, Lord Advocate, or his depute, or barrister respectively, and so that all provisions in any Acts of Parliament not hereby repealed relating to such Registrar, Lord Advocate, or his depute, or barrister respectively, shall be construed as applying to such Assistant Registrars respectively;

(b) Send to the central office copies of all such documents registered or recorded by them as the Chief Registrar shall from time to time direct;

(c) Record all such documents and matters as shall be sent to them for record from the central office, and such other documents and matters as herein provided;

(d) Circulate and publish, or transmit to or from societies registered within their respective countries, from or to the central office, such information and documents relating to the purposes of this Act as the Chief Registrar, with the approval of the Treasury, shall from time to time direct;

(e) Report from time to time their proceedings to the Chief Registrar as he shall direct.

(g) No Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland shall refuse to record any rules or amendments of rules which have been registered by the central office.

Sections 77 and 78.—The Channel Islands.

These sections make some variations in the general provisions of the Act so far as regards the Channel Islands.
SECTION 79.—Interpretation and Definitions.

The various terms used in the Act are here interpreted and defined.

SECTION 80.—Repeals.

By this section the following enactments are repealed, viz.: The Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1876; the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1880, Sec. 8; the Provident Nomination and Small Intestacies Act, 1883, so far as relates to Industrial and Provident Societies.
THE INDUSTRIAL AND PROVIDENT SOCIETIES ACT, 1893.

AN ACT

TO Consolidate and Amend the Laws Relating to Industrial and Provident Societies.

I2TH SEPTEMBER, 1893.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to industrial and provident societies:

Be it therefore enacted by the Queen’s most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Preliminary.

1.—This Act may be cited as the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893.

2.—This Act shall come into operation on the first day of January next after the passing thereof, and shall extend to Great Britain and Ireland and the Channel Islands.

3.—Every incorporated society now existing which has been registered or certified under any Act relating to industrial and provident societies shall be deemed to be a society registered under this Act, and its rules shall, so far as the same are not contrary to any express provision of this Act, continue in force until altered or rescinded.
Registration of Societies.

4.—A society which may be registered under this Act (herein called an industrial and provident society) is a society for carrying on any industries, businesses, or trades specified in or authorised by its rules, whether wholesale or retail, and including dealings of any description with land. Provided that—

(a) No member other than a registered society shall have or claim any interest in the shares of the society exceeding two hundred pounds, and

(b) In regard to the business of banking, the society shall be subject to the provisions hereinafter contained.

5.—With respect to the registry of new societies the following provisions shall have effect:—

(1) No society can be registered under this Act which does not consist of seven persons at least;

(2) For the purpose of registry an application to register the society, signed by seven members and the secretary, and two printed copies of the rules, shall be sent to the Registrar;

(3) No society shall be registered under a name identical with that under which any other existing society is registered, or so nearly resembling such name as to be likely, or in any name likely, in the opinion of the Registrar, to mislead the members or the public as to its identity, and no society shall change its name except in the manner hereinafter provided;

(4) A society registered under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1852, and not registered under the Industrial and Provident Societies Acts, 1862, 1867, or 1876, may obtain from the Registrar an acknowledgment of registry under this Act;

(5) The word "limited" shall be the last word in the name of every society registered under this Act;
(6) A society carrying or intending to carry on business in more than one part of the United Kingdom shall be registered in the part in which its registered office, as herein mentioned, is situate; but copies of the rules of the society and of all amendments of the same shall, when registered, be sent to the Registrar of each of the other parts to be recorded to him, and until such rules are so recorded the society shall not be entitled to any of the privileges of this Act in the part in which such rules have not been recorded, and until such amendments are so recorded the same shall not take effect in such part.

6.—The Registrar on being satisfied that a society has complied with the provisions as to registry in force under this Act, shall issue to such society an acknowledgment of registry.

7.—(i) If the Registrar refuses to register the society or any rules or amendments of rules, the society may appeal from such refusal as follows:

(a) In England or Ireland to the High Court;

(b) In Scotland to either division of the Inner House of the Court of Session.

(2) If the refusal of registry is overruled on appeal, an acknowledgment of registry shall thereupon be given to the society by the Registrar.

8.—The acknowledgment of registry shall be conclusive evidence that the society therein mentioned is duly registered, unless it is proved that the registry of the society has been suspended or cancelled.

Cancelling and Suspension of Registry.

9.—(i) The Registrar may cancel the registry of a society by writing under his hand or seal:

(a) If at any time it is proved to his satisfaction that the number of the members of the society has been reduced to less than seven, or that an acknowledgment of registry has been obtained by fraud or mistake, or that the society has ceased to exist;
72

(b) If he thinks fit, at the request of a society, to be evidenced in such manner as he shall from time to time direct;

(c) With the approval of the Treasury, on proof to his satisfaction that the society exists for an illegal purpose, or has wilfully and after notice from a registrar violated any of the provisions of this Act.

(2) The Registrar, in any case in which he might, with the approval of the Treasury, cancel the registry of a society, may suspend the same, by writing under his hand or seal, for any term not exceeding three months, and may, with the approval of the Treasury, renew such suspension from time to time for the like period.

(3) Not less than two months' previous notice in writing, specifying briefly the ground of any proposed cancelling or suspension of registry, shall be given by the Registrar to a society before the registry of the same can be cancelled (except at its request) or suspended; and notice of every cancelling or suspension shall be published in the Gazette, and in some local newspaper circulating in or about the locality in which the registered office of the society is situated, as soon as practicable after the same takes place.

(4) A society may appeal from the cancelling of its registry, or from any suspension of the same which is renewed after three months, in manner herein provided for appeals from the Registrar's refusal to register.

(5) A society whose registry has been suspended or cancelled shall from the date of publication in the Gazette of notice of such suspension or cancelling (but, if suspended, only whilst such suspension lasts, and subject also to the right of appeal hereby given) absolutely cease to enjoy as such the privileges of a registered society, but without prejudice to any liability actually incurred by such society, which may be enforced against the same as if such suspension or cancelling had not taken place.
Rules.

10.—(1) The rules of a society registered under this Act shall contain provisions in respect of the several matters mentioned in the Second Schedule to this Act.

(2) An amendment of a rule of a society registered under this Act shall not be valid until the same has been registered under this Act, for which purpose two copies of the same, signed by three members and the secretary, shall be sent to the Registrar.

(3) The Registrar shall, on being satisfied that any amendment of a rule is not contrary to the provisions of this Act, issue to the society an acknowledgment of registry of the same, which shall be conclusive evidence that the same is duly registered.

(4) A copy of the rules of a registered society shall be delivered by the society to every person on demand, on payment of a sum not exceeding one shilling.

(5) The rules of a registered society, or any schedule thereto, may set forth the form of any instrument necessary for carrying the purposes of the society into effect.

(6) The rules of every society registered under this Act shall provide for the profits being appropriated to any purposes stated therein or determined in such manner as the rules direct.

Duties of Registered Societies.

11.—Every registered society shall have a registered office to which all communications and notices shall be addressed, and shall send to the Registrar notice of the situation of such office, and of every change therein.

12.—Every registered society shall paint or affix, and keep painted or affixed, its registered name on the outside of every office or place in which the business of the society is carried on, in a conspicuous position, in letters easily legible, and have its registered name engraved in legible characters on its seal, and have its registered name mentioned in legible characters in all notices, advertisements, and other official publications of the society, and in all bills of exchange, promissory notes, endorsements, cheques, and orders for money or goods, purporting to be signed by or on behalf of such society, and in all bills of parcels, invoices, receipts, and letters of credit of the society.

Audit.

13.—(1) Every registered society shall once at least in every year submit its accounts for audit either to one of the public auditors appointed as in this Act mentioned, or to two or more persons appointed as the rules of the society provide.

(2) The auditors shall have access to all the books, deeds, documents, and accounts of the society, and shall examine the balance sheets showing the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the society, and verify the same with the books, deeds, documents, accounts and vouchers, relating thereto, and shall either sign the same as found by them to be correct, duly vouched, and in accordance with law, or specially report to the society in what respects they find them incorrect, unvouched, or not in accordance with law.

Annual returns.

14.—(1) Every registered society shall once in every year, not later than the thirty-first day of March, send to the Registrar an annual return of the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the society as audited.

(2) The annual return—

(a) shall be signed by the auditor or auditors; and

(b) shall show separately the expenditure in respect of the several objects of the society; and
(c) shall be made out from the date of its registration or last annual return to that of its last published balance sheet, provided that the last-named date is not more than one month before or after the thirty-first of December then last, or otherwise to the said day of December inclusive; and

(d) shall state whether the audit has been conducted by a public auditor appointed as by this Act is provided, and by whom, and, if by any persons other than a public auditor, shall state the name, address, and calling or profession of every such person, and the manner in which, and the authority under which, he is appointed.

The society shall, together with the annual return, send a copy of the report of the auditors, or, if more than one such report has been made during the period included in the return, a copy of each of such reports.

15.—Every registered society shall supply gratuitously to every member or person interested in the funds of the society, on his application, a copy of the last annual return of the society for the time being.

16.—Every registered society shall keep a copy of the last balance sheet for the time being, together with the report of the auditors, always hung up in a conspicuous place at the registered office of the society.

Inspection of the Books.

17.—(1) Save as provided by this Act, no member or person shall have any right to inspect the books of a registered society, notwithstanding anything in the existing rules relating to such inspection.

(2) Any member or person having an interest in the funds of a registered society shall be allowed to inspect his own account and the books containing the names of the members at all reasonable hours at the registered office of the society, or at any place where the same are kept, subject to such regulations as to the time and manner of such inspection as may be made from time to time by the general meetings of the society.

(3) A registered society may, by any rules registered after this Act is passed, authorise the inspection of any of its books therein mentioned, in addition to the said books containing the names of members, under such conditions as are thereby imposed, so that no person, unless he be an officer of the society, or be specially authorised by a resolution thereof, shall have the right to inspect the loan or deposit account of any other member without his written consent.

18.—(1) The Registrar may, if he thinks fit, on the application of ten members of a registered society, each of whom has been a member of the society for not less than twelve months immediately preceding the date of the application, appoint an accountant or actuary to inspect the books of the society, and to report thereon.

(2) Provided as follows,—

(a) the applicants shall deposit with the Registrar such sum as a security for the costs of the proposed inspection as the Registrar may require; and

(b) all expenses of and incidental to any such inspection shall be defrayed by the applicants, or out of the funds of the society, or by the members or officers, or former members or officers of the society, in such proportions as the Registrar may direct.

(3). A person appointed under this section shall have power to make copies of any books of the society, and to take extracts therefrom at all reasonable hours at the registered office of the society, or at any place where the books are kept.

(4) The Registrar shall communicate the results of any such inspection to the applicants and to the society.
Banking by Societies.

19. —(1) No registered society which has any withdrawable share capital shall carry on the business of banking.

(2) Every registered society which carries on the business of banking shall on the first Mondays in February and August in each year make out and keep conspicuously hung up in its registered office, and every other office or place of business belonging to it where the business of banking is carried on, a statement in the form in the Third Schedule, or as near thereto as the circumstances admit.

(3) The taking deposits of not more than ten shillings in any one payment, nor more than twenty pounds for any one depositor, payable on not less than two clear days' notice, shall not be included in the business of banking within the meaning of this Act; but no society which takes such deposits shall make any payment of withdrawable capital while any claim due on account of any such deposit is unsatisfied.

Returns and Documents.

20. —Every return and other document required for the purposes of this Act shall be made in such form and shall contain such particulars as the Chief Registrar prescribes, and shall be deposited and registered or recorded, with or without observations thereon, in such manner as the Chief Registrar directs.

Privileges of Societies.

21. —The registration of a society shall render it a body corporate by the name described in the acknowledgment of registry, by which it may sue and be sued, with perpetual succession and a common seal, and with limited liability; and shall vest in the society all property for the time being vested in any person in trust for the society; and all legal proceedings pending by or against the trustees of any such society may be prosecuted by or against the society in its registered name without abatement.
22. — The rules of a registered society shall bind the society and all members thereof and all persons claiming through them respectively to the same extent as if each member had subscribed his name and affixed his seal thereto, and there were contained in such rules a covenant on the part of such member, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, to conform thereto, subject to the provisions of this Act: Provided that a society registered at the time when this Act comes into operation, or the members thereof, may respectively exercise any power given by this Act, and not made to depend on the provisions of its rules, notwithstanding any provision contained in any rule thereof registered before this Act was passed.

23. — (1) All moneys payable by a member to a registered society shall be a debt due from such member to the society, and shall be recoverable as such either in the County Court of the district in which the registered office of the society is situate, or in that of the district in which such member resides, at the option of the society.

(2) A registered society shall have a lien on the shares of any member for any debt due to it by him, and may set off any sum credited to the member thereon in or towards the payment of such debt.

24. — A registered society shall not be chargeable under Schedules C and D of the Income Tax Acts unless it sells to persons not members thereof, and the number of shares of the society is limited either by its rules or its practice. But no member of or person employed by the society shall be exempt from any assessment to the said duties to which he would be otherwise liable.

25. — (1) A member of a registered society, not being under the age of sixteen years, may, by a writing under his hand, delivered at or sent to the registered office of the society during the lifetime of such member, or made in any book kept thereat, nominate any person or persons other than an officer or servant of the society (unless such officer or servant is the husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator) to or among whom his property in the society, whether in shares, loans, or deposits, or so much thereof as is specified in such nomination, if the nomination does not comprise the whole, shall be transferred at his decease, provided the amount credited to him in the books of the society does not then exceed one hundred pounds sterling.

(2) A nomination so made may be revoked or varied by any similar document under the hand of the nominator, delivered, sent, or made as aforesaid, but shall not be revocable or variable by the will of the nominator or any codicil thereto.

(3) The society shall keep a book wherein the names of all persons so nominated and of all revocations or variations, if any, of such nominations shall be regularly entered. And the property comprised in any such nomination shall be payable or transferable to the nominees, although the rules of the society declare the shares to be generally not transferable.

26.—(1) On receiving satisfactory proof of the death of a nominator, the committee of the society shall either transfer the property comprised in the nomination in manner directed by it, or pay to every person entitled thereunder the full value of the property given to him, unless the shares comprised therein, if transferred as directed by the nominator, would raise the share capital of any nominee to a sum exceeding two hundred pounds, in which case they shall pay him the value of such shares.

(2) If the total property of the nominator in the society at his death exceeds eighty pounds the committee shall, before making any payment, require production of a duly-stamped receipt for the succession or legacy duty payable thereon, or a letter or certificate stating that no such duty is payable, from the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, who shall give such receipt, letter, or certificate, on payment of the duty, or satisfactory proof of no duty being payable, as the case may be.
27.—(1) If any member of a registered society entitled to property therein in respect of shares, loans, or deposits, not exceeding in the whole at his death one hundred pounds, dies intestate, without having made any nomination thereof then subsisting, the committee may, without letters of administration, distribute the same among such persons as appear to them, on such evidence as they deem satisfactory, to be entitled by law to receive the same, subject, if such property exceeds eighty pounds, to the obtaining from the Commissioners of Inland Revenue a receipt for the succession or legacy duty payable thereon, or a letter or certificate stating that no such duty is payable.

(2) If any such member is illegitimate and leaves no widow, widower, or issue, the committee shall deal with his property in the society as the Treasury shall direct.

28.—If elsewhere than in Scotland the whole personal estate, or in Scotland the whole movable estate, of any person entitled to make a nomination under this Act exceeds one hundred pounds sterling, any sum paid under this Act without probate or letters of administration shall, notwithstanding such nomination or payment, be liable to probate duty as part of the amount on which such duty is charged, and the committee, before making any such payment, may require a statutory declaration by the claimant or one of the claimants that the total personal or movable estate of the deceased, including the sum in question, does not, after deductions of debts and funeral expenses, exceed the value of one hundred pounds.

29.—Where a member or person claiming through a member of a society is insane, and no committee of his estate or trustee of his property has been duly appointed, the society may, when it is proved to the satisfaction of the committee that it is just and expedient so to do, pay the amount of the shares, loans, and deposits not exceeding one hundred pounds belonging to such member or person, to any person whom they shall judge proper to receive the same on his behalf, whose receipt shall be a good discharge to the society for any sum so paid.

30.—All payments or transfers made by the committee of a registered society, under the provisions of this Act with respect to payments or transfers to or on behalf of deceased or insane members, to any person who at the time appears to the committee to be entitled thereunder, shall be valid and effectual against any demand made upon the committee or society by any other person.

31.—(1) When any person in whose name any stock belonging to a registered society transferable at the Bank of England or Bank of Ireland is standing, either jointly with another or others or solely, as a trustee therefor, is absent from Great Britain or Ireland respectively, or becomes bankrupt, or files any petition or executes any deed for liquidation of his affairs by assignment or arrangement, or for composition with his creditors, or becomes a lunatic, or is dead, or has been removed from his office of trustee, or if it be unknown whether such person is living or dead, the Chief Registrar, on application in writing from the secretary and three members of the society, and on proof satisfactory to him, may direct the transfer of the stock into the names of any other persons as trustees for the society.

(2) The transfer shall be made by the surviving or continuing trustees, and if there be no such trustee, or if such trustees refuse or be unable to make such transfer, and the Chief Registrar so directs, then by the Accountant General or Deputy or Assistant Accountant General of the Bank of England or Bank of Ireland, as the case may be.

(3) The Banks of England and Ireland are hereby indemnified for anything done by them or any of their officers in pursuance of this provision against any claim or demand of any person injuriously affected thereby.
32.—A person under the age of twenty-one, but above the age of sixteen, may be a member of a registered society, unless provision be made in the rules thereof to the contrary, and may, subject to the rules of the society, enjoy all the rights of a member (except as by this Act provided), and execute all instruments and give all acquittances necessary to be executed or given under the rules, but shall not be a member of the committee, trustee, manager, or treasurer of the society.

33.—A promissory note or bill of exchange shall be deemed to have been made, accepted, or endorsed on behalf of any society if made, accepted, or endorsed in the name of the society, or by or on behalf or account of the society, by any person acting under the authority of the society.

34.—Any register or list of members or shares kept by any society shall be _prima facie_ evidence of any of the following particulars entered therein:—

(a) The names, addresses, and occupations of the members, the number of shares held by them respectively, the number of such shares, if they are distinguished by numbers, and the amount paid or agreed to be considered as paid on any such shares;

(b) The date at which the name of any person, company, or society was entered in such register or list as a member;

(c) The date at which any such person, company, or society ceased to be a member.

35.—Contracts on behalf of a registered society may be made, varied, or discharged as follows:—

(a) Any contract, which if made between private persons would be by law required to be in writing, and if made according to the English law to be under seal, may be made on behalf of the society in writing under the common seal of the society, and may in the same manner be varied or discharged;
Any contract, which if made between private persons would be by law required to be in writing and signed by the persons to be charged therewith, may be made on behalf of the society in writing by any person acting under the express or implied authority of the society, and may in the same manner be varied or discharged;

Any contract under seal which, if made between private persons, might be varied or discharged by a writing not under seal, signed by any person interested therein, may be similarly varied or discharged on behalf of the society by a writing not under seal, signed by any person acting under the express or implied authority of the society;

Any contract, which if made between private persons would be by law valid though made by parol only and not reduced in writing, may be made by parol on behalf of the society by any person acting under the express or implied authority of the society, and may in the same manner be varied or discharged;

A signature, purporting to be made by a person holding any office in the society, attached to a writing whereby any contract purports to be made, varied, or discharged by or on behalf of the society, shall prima facie be taken to be the signature of a person holding at the time when the signature was made the office so stated.

All contracts which may be or have been made, varied, or discharged according to the provisions contained in this section, shall, so far as concerns the form thereof, be effectual in law and binding on the society and all other parties thereto, their heirs, executors, or administrators, as the case may be.

Property and Funds of Registered Society.

A registered society may (if its rules do not direct otherwise) hold, purchase, or take on lease in its own name any land, and may sell, exchange, mortgage, lease, or build upon the same, or grant bonds and dispositions on security or other heritable securities over the same (with power to alter and pull down buildings and again rebuild), and no purchaser, assignee, mortgagee, tenant, or bondholder shall be bound to inquire as to the authority for any such sale, exchange, mortgage, or lease by the society, and the receipt of the society shall be a discharge for all moneys arising from or in connection with such sale, exchange, mortgage, lease, or heritable security.

37.—Where any registered society is entitled in equity to any hereditaments of copyhold or customary tenure, either absolutely or by way of mortgage or security, the lord of the manor of which the same are held shall from time to time, if the society so require, admit such persons (not to exceed three) as such society appoints to be trustees on its behalf, as tenants in respect of such hereditaments, on payment of the usual fines, fees, and other dues payable on the admission of a single tenant, or may admit the society as tenant in respect of the same on payment of such special fine or compensation, in lieu of fine and fees, as may be agreed upon between such lord and the society.

38.—(1) A registered society may invest any part of its capital in or upon any security authorised by its rules, and also, if the rules do not direct otherwise:

(a) in or upon any security in which trustees are for the time being authorised by law to invest; and

(b) in or upon any mortgage, bond, debenture, debenture stock, corporation stock, annuity, rent charge, rent, or other security (not being securities payable to bearer) authorised by or under any Act of Parliament passed or to be passed of any local authority as defined by section thirty-four of the Local Loans Act, 1875; and
(c) in the shares or on the security of any other society registered or deemed to be registered under this Act, or under the Building Societies Acts, or of any company registered under the Companies Acts or incorporated by Act of Parliament or by charter, provided that no such investment be made in the shares of any society or company other than one with limited liability.

(2) A society so investing shall be deemed to be a person within the meaning of the Companies Acts, and of the Building Societies Acts.

(3) Any investments made before the passing of this Act, which would have been valid if this Act had then been in force, are hereby ratified and confirmed.

39.—A society (not being one chargeable with income tax in pursuance of this Act) may invest its capital and funds, or any part thereof to any amount, in any savings bank certified under the Trustee Savings Banks Act, 1863, or in a post office savings bank.

40.—The rules of a registered society may provide for advances of money to members on the security of real or personal property, or in the case of a society registered to carry on banking business in any manner customary in the conduct of such business.

41.—A registered society which has invested any part of its capital in the shares or on the security of any other body corporate may appoint as proxy any one of its members, although such member is not personally a shareholder of such other body corporate. The proxy shall, during the continuance of his appointment, be taken in virtue thereof as holding the number of shares held by the society by whom he is appointed for all purposes except the transfer of any such shares, or the giving receipts for any dividends thereon.

42.—Any other body corporate may, if its regulations permit, hold shares by its corporate name in a registered society.
Discharge of Mortgages by Receipt Endorsed.

43.—In England and Ireland—

(1) A receipt in full, signed by two members of the committee, and countersigned by the secretary, of a registered society, for all moneys secured to the society on the security of any property to which such receipt relates, and being in the Form A, in the Third Schedule to this Act, or in any other form specified in the rules of the society or any schedule thereto, if endorsed on or annexed to any mortgage or assurance, shall vacate the same and vest the property therein comprised in the person entitled to the equity of redemption thereof without any formal reconveyance or surrender.

(2) If such mortgage or other assurance has been registered under any Act for the registration or record of deeds or titles, or is of copyholds or lands of customary tenure, and is entered on any court rolls, the Registrar under such Act, or recording officer, or steward of the manor, or keeper of the register, shall, on production of such receipt, verified by oath or statutory declaration of any person, enter satisfaction on the register or on the court rolls respectively of such mortgage or of the charge, made by such assurance, and shall grant a certificate, either upon such mortgage or assurance or separately to the like effect, which certificate shall be received in evidence in all courts and proceedings without further proof; and such Registrar, recording officer, steward, or keeper of the register shall be entitled, for making the said entry and granting the said certificate, to a fee of two shillings and sixpence, which in Ireland shall be paid by stamps and applied in accordance with the Public Offices Fees Act, 1879.

44.—In Scotland—

(1) A receipt in full, signed by two members of the committee, and countersigned by the secretary, of a registered society, for all moneys secured to the society on the security of any property to which such receipt relates, and being in or as nearly as may be in the Form B, in the Third Schedule to this Act, if endorsed on or annexed to any heritable security other than one in the form of an ex-facie or other absolute conveyance or disposition, shall, on the registration thereof in the appropriate register of sasines, operate as a renunciation and discharge of such heritable security, and effectually disburden the lands, or estate in land, or other subjects comprised therein, in the same manner and to the same effect as if a formal discharge containing all usual clauses according to the present practice had been granted by the society.

(2) Such a receipt so signed, and being in or as nearly as may be in the Form C, in the said schedule, endorsed on or annexed to any heritable security in the form of an ex-facie or other absolute conveyance, or of an absolute disposition, whether qualified by a back bond or not, shall, on the registration thereof in the appropriate register of sasines, effectively discharge the heritable security so constituted, and disburden the lands, or estate in land, or other subjects comprised in the heritable security, and vest and convey the same in and to the person or persons entitled thereto at the date of the granting of the receipt, and that to the same effect and in the same manner as if a formal conveyance, containing all usual clauses according to the present practice, had been granted by the society to such person or persons and duly recorded.

(3) Such a receipt so signed, and being in or as nearly as may be in the Form D, in the said schedule hereto, endorsed on or annexed to any security or assurance other than a heritable security, shall (on being duly intimated where the original security or assurance was intimated) vacate the same, and revest the property therein comprised in the person or persons entitled to the same, without the necessity of any more formal discharge or other deed.
(4) Nothing herein contained shall preclude any person or persons from adopting the forms and procedure presently in use in lieu of those provided under this Act, and, in case of any error or defect in connection with the use of the forms under this Act, it shall be competent to make and record any deed or deeds which may be necessary, whether under this Act or otherwise.

(5) The registration of such receipts as aforesaid shall be made in conformity with the provisions regulating registration in the registers concerned, but the dues on the registration of any one receipt shall in no case exceed five shillings. No stamp duty shall be payable on any receipt registered under this section.

(6) In this section, and in the schedule relating hereto, the expressions "heritable security," "lands" (including "land"), "estate in land," "debtor," "successors" (including "successor"), "deed" or "deeds," and "conveyance," shall each respectively have the meaning attached thereto by the Titles to Land Consolidation (Scotland) Act, 1868, the Titles to Land Consolidation (Scotland) Amendment Act, 1869, and the Conveyancing (Scotland) Act, 1874, and the expression "heritable security" shall include securities over lands or estates in lands by way of ex-facie or other absolute dispositions whether qualified by a back bond or not.

45.—Where a registered society is in liquidation, the signature to such a receipt as aforesaid of the liquidator or liquidators for the time being, described as such, shall have the same effect, and shall be entitled to the same exemption from stamp duty, as would under this Act attach to a similar receipt signed as aforesaid if the society were not in liquidation.

46.—(r) Any deed or writ to which any registered society is a party shall be held to be duly executed on behalf of such society in Scotland if it is either executed in conformity with the present law thereof or is sealed with the common seal of the society, subscribed on its behalf by two members of the committee and the secretary of the society, whether such subscription is attested by witnesses or not.

(2) On payment of all moneys intended to be secured to a society by any of the aforesaid securities, the debtor or his successor or representatives shall be entitled to a receipt in the appropriate form provided by this Act.

Officers in Receipt or Charge of Money.

47.—Every officer of a registered society having receipt or charge of money, if the rules of the society require, shall, before taking upon himself the execution of his office, become bound, either with or without a surety as the committee may require, in a bond according to one of the forms set forth in the Third Schedule to this Act, or such other form as the committee of the society approve, or give the security of a guarantee society in such sum as the committee directs, conditioned for his rendering a just and true account of all moneys received and paid by him on account of the society at such times as its rules appoint, or as the society or the committee thereof require him to do, and for the payment by him of all sums due from him to the society.

48.—(1) Every officer of a registered society having receipt or charge of money, or his executors or administrators, shall, at such times as by the rules of the society he should render account, or upon demand made, or notice in writing given or left at his last or usual place of residence, give in his account as may be required by the society, or by the committee thereof, to be examined and allowed or disallowed by them, and shall, on the like demand or notice, pay over all moneys and deliver all property for the time being in his hands or custody to such person as the society or the committee appoint; and in case of any neglect or refusal to deliver such account, or pay over such moneys or to deliver such property in manner aforesaid, the society may sue upon the bond or security before mentioned, or may apply to the County Court (which may proceed in a summary way), or to a court of summary jurisdiction, and the order of either such court shall be final and conclusive.

(2) This section shall apply to every servant of a registered society in receipt or charge of money in every case where he is not engaged under a special agreement to account.

Disputes.

49.-(1) Every dispute between a member of a registered society, or any person aggrieved who has for not more than six months ceased to be a member of a registered society, or any person claiming through such member or person aggrieved, or claiming under the rules of a registered society, and the society or an officer thereof, shall be decided in manner directed by the rules of the society, if they contain any such direction, and the decision so made shall be binding and conclusive on all parties without appeal, and shall not be removable into any court of law or restrainable by injunction; and application for the enforcement thereof may be made to the County Court.

(2) The parties to a dispute in a society may, by consent (unless the rules of such society expressly forbid it), refer such dispute to the Chief Registrar, or to the Assistant Registrar in Scotland or Ireland, who shall, with the consent of the Treasury, either by himself or by any other Registrar, hear and determine such dispute, and shall have power to order the expenses of determining the same to be paid either out of the funds of the society or by such parties to the dispute as he shall think fit, and such determination and order shall have the same effect and be enforceable in like manner as a decision made in the manner directed by the rules of the society.
The Chief or other Registrar to whom any dispute is referred may administer oaths, and may require the attendance of all parties concerned and of witnesses, and the production of all books and documents relating to the matter in question; and any person refusing to attend, or to produce any documents, or to give evidence before such Chief or other Registrar, shall be guilty of an offence under this Act.

Where the rules of a society direct that disputes shall be referred to justices, the dispute shall be determined by a court of summary jurisdiction;

Provided that in every case of dispute cognisable under the rules of a society by a court of summary jurisdiction, it shall be lawful for the parties thereto to enter into a consent referring such dispute to the County Court, which may hear and determine the matter in dispute.

Where the rules contain no direction as to disputes, or where no decision is made on a dispute within forty days after application to the society for a reference under its rules, the member or person aggrieved may apply either to the County Court, or to a court of summary jurisdiction, which may hear and determine the matter in dispute.

Notwithstanding anything contained in the Arbitration Act, 1889, or in any other Act, the court and the Chief or other Registrar shall not be compelled to state a special case on any question of law arising in the case, but the court or Chief or other Registrar, may, at the request of either party, state a case for the opinion in England or Ireland of the Supreme Court of Judicature, and in Scotland of either division of the Inner House of the Court of Session, on any question of law, and may also grant to either party such discovery as to documents and otherwise, or such inspection of documents, and in Scotland may grant such warrant for the recovery of documents and examination of havers, as might be granted by any court of law or equity; such discovery to be made on behalf of the society by such officer of the same as such court or Registrar may determine.

Inspection of Affairs.

50.—(1) Upon the application of one-tenth of the whole number of members of the registered society, or of one hundred members in the case of a society exceeding one thousand members, the Chief Registrar, or, in the case of societies registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland respectively, but with the consent of the Treasury in every case, may—

(a) appoint an inspector or inspectors to examine into and report on the affairs of such society; or

(b) call a special meeting of the society.

(2) The application under this section shall be supported by such evidence, for the purpose of showing that the applicants have good reason for requiring such inspection to be made or meeting to be called, and that they are not actuated by malicious motives in their application, and such notice thereof shall be given to the society, as the Chief Registrar shall direct.

(3) The Chief Registrar or such Assistant Registrar may, if he think fit, require the applicants to give security for the costs of the proposed inspection or meeting before appointing any inspector or calling such meeting.

(4) All expenses of and incidental to any such inspection or meeting shall be defrayed by the members applying for the same, or out of the funds of the society, or by the members or officers, or former members or officers of the society in such proportions as the Chief Registrar or such Assistant Registrar shall direct.
(5) An inspector appointed under this section may require the production of all or any of the books, accounts, securities, and documents of the society, and may examine on oath its officers, members, agents, and servants in relation to its business, and may administer an oath accordingly.

(6) The Chief Registrar or such Assistant Registrar may direct at what time and place a special meeting under this section is to be held, and what matters are to be discussed and determined at the meeting, and the meeting shall have all the powers of a meeting called according to the rules of the society, and shall in all cases have power to appoint its own chairman, any rule of the society to the contrary notwithstanding.

Change of Name: Amalgamation: Conversion.

51.—For the purposes of this Act a special resolution shall mean a resolution which is—

(a) passed by a majority of not less than three-fourths of such members of a registered society for the time being entitled under the rules to vote as may have voted in person, or by proxy where the rules allow proxies, at any general meeting of which notice, specifying the intention to propose the resolutions, has been duly given according to the rules; and

(b) confirmed by a majority of such members for the time being entitled under the rules to vote as may have voted in person, or by proxy where the rules allow proxies, at a subsequent general meeting of which notice has been duly given, held not less than fourteen days nor more than one month from the day of the meeting at which such resolution was first passed.

At any meeting mentioned in this section a declaration by the chairman that the resolution has been carried shall be deemed conclusive evidence of the fact.
52.—A registered society may, by special resolution, with the approval in writing of the Chief Registrar, or, in the case of societies registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland respectively, change its name; but no such change shall affect any right or obligation of the society, or of any member thereof, and any pending legal proceedings may be continued by or against the society notwithstanding its new name.

53.—(1) Any two or more registered societies may, by special resolution of both or all such societies, become amalgamated together as one society, with or without any dissolution or division of the funds of such societies or either of them, and the property of such societies shall become vested in the amalgamated society without the necessity of any form of conveyance other than that contained in the special resolution amalgamating the societies.

(2) Any registered society may by special resolution transfer its engagements to any other registered society which may undertake to fulfil the engagements of such society.

54.—(1) A registered society may by special resolution determine to convert itself into a company under the Companies Acts, or to amalgamate with or transfer its engagements to any such company.

(2) If a special resolution for converting a registered society into a company contains the particulars by the Companies Acts required to be contained in the memorandum of association of a company, and a copy thereof has been registered at the central office, a copy of such resolution under the seal or stamp of the central office shall have the same effect as a memorandum of association duly signed and attested under the said Act.

(3) If a registered society is registered as, or amalgamates with, or transfers all its engagements to, a company, the registry of such society under this Act shall thereupon become void, and the same shall be cancelled by the Chief Registrar or by the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland under his direction; but the registration of a society as a company shall not affect any right or claim for the time being subsisting against such society, or any penalty for the time being incurred by such society; and for the purpose of enforcing any such right, claim, or penalty, the society may be sued and proceeded against in the same manner as if it had not become registered as a company; and every such right or claim, or the liability to such penalty, shall have priority, as against the property of such company, over all other rights or claims against or liabilities of such company.

55.—(1) A company registered under the Companies Acts may, by a special resolution, determine to convert itself into a registered society, and for this purpose, in any case where the nominal value of its shares held by any member other than a registered society exceeds two hundred pounds, may, by such resolution, provide for the conversion of the excess of such share capital over two hundred pounds into a transferable loan stock bearing such rate of interest as may thereby be fixed, and repayable on such conditions only as are in such resolution determined.

(2) A resolution for the conversion of a company into a registered society shall be accompanied by a copy of the rules of the society therein referred to, and shall appoint seven persons, members of the company, who, together with the secretary, shall sign the rules, and who may either be authorised to accept any alterations made by the Registrar therein, without further consulting the company, or may be required to lay all such alterations before the company in general meeting for acceptance as the resolution may direct.

(3) With the rules a copy of the special resolution for conversion of the company into a registered society shall be sent to the Registrar, who, upon the registration of the society, shall give to it, in addition to the acknowledgment of registry, a certificate similarly sealed or signed that the rules of the society referred to in the resolution have been registered, but in the registered name of the company as a society the word "company" shall not be used.

(4) A copy of the resolution for the conversion of the company into a registered society under the seal of the company, together with the certificate so issued by the Registrar, shall be sent for registration to the office of the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, and upon the registration of such resolution and certificate the conversion shall take effect.

(5) Upon the conversion of a company into a registered society the registry of the company under the Companies Acts shall become void, and shall be cancelled by the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies; but the registration of a company as a registered society shall not affect any right or claim for the time being subsisting against the company, or any penalty for the time being incurred by such company, and, for the purpose of enforcing any such right, claim, or penalty, the company may be sued and proceeded against in the same manner as if it had not become registered as a society. And every such right or claim, and the liability to such penalty, shall have priority as against the property of such society over all other rights or claims against or liabilities of the society.

56.—A copy of every special resolution for any of the purposes mentioned in this Act, signed by the chairman of the meeting at which the resolution was confirmed, and countersigned by the secretary of the society, shall be sent to the central office and registered there, and until that copy is so registered the special resolution shall not take effect.

57.—An amalgamation or transfer of engagements in pursuance of this Act shall not prejudice any right of a creditor of any registered society party thereto.
Dissolution of Societies.

58.—A registered society may be dissolved—

(a) By an order to wind-up the society, or a resolution for the winding-up thereof, made as is directed in regard to companies by the Companies Acts, 1862 to 1890, the provisions whereof shall apply to any such order or resolution, except that the term "Registrar" shall for the purpose of such winding-up have the meaning given to it by this Act; or

(b) By the consent of three-fourths of the members, testified by their signatures to an instrument of dissolution.

59.—Any proceedings in the winding-up of a registered society which at the passing of this Act are pending in any County Court may, on application made by or on behalf of the Registrar, with the consent of the Treasury, be transferred to the High Court, and thereupon the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, shall so far as applicable, apply thereto accordingly.

60.—Where a registered society is wound up in pursuance of an order or resolution the liability of a present or past member of the society to contribute for payment of the debts and liabilities of the society, the expenses of winding-up, and the adjustment of the rights of contributories amongst themselves, shall be qualified as follows:—

(a) No individual, society, or company, who or which has ceased to be a member for one year or upwards prior to the commencement of the winding-up, shall be liable to contribute;

(b) No individual, society, or company shall be liable to contribute in respect of any debt or liability contracted after he or it ceased to be a member;

(c) No individual, society, or company, not a member, shall be liable to contribute, unless it appears to the court that the contributions of the existing members are insufficient to satisfy the just demands on the society;

(d) No contribution shall be required from any individual, society, or company exceeding the amount, if any, unpaid on the shares in respect of which he or it is liable as a past or present member;
(e) An individual, society, or company shall be taken to have ceased to be a member, in respect of any withdrawable share withdrawn, from the date of the notice or application for withdrawal.

61.—Where a society is terminated by an instrument of dissolution—

(a) The instrument of dissolution shall set forth the liabilities and assets of the society in detail, the number of members and the nature of their interests in the society respectively, the claims of creditors (if any) and the provisions to be made for their payment, and the intended appropriation or division of the funds and property of the society, unless the same be stated in the instrument of dissolution to be left to the award of the Chief Registrar;

(b) Alterations in the instrument of dissolution may be made with the like consents as hereinbefore provided, and testified in the same manner;

(c) A statutory declaration shall be made by three members and the secretary of the society that the provisions of this Act have been complied with, and shall be sent to the Registrar with the instrument of dissolution; and any person knowingly making a false or fraudulent declaration in the matter shall be guilty of a misdemeanour;

(d) The instrument of dissolution and all alterations therein shall be registered in the manner herein provided for the registry of rules, and shall be binding upon all the members of the society;

(e) The Registrar shall cause a notice of the dissolution to be advertised at the expense of the society in the Gazette and in some newspapers circulating in or about the locality in which the registered office of the society is situated; and unless, within three months from the date of the Gazette in which such advertisement appears, a member or other person interested in or having any claim on the funds of the society commences proceedings to set aside the dissolution of the society in the County Court of the district where the registered office of the society is situate, and such dissolution is set aside accordingly, the society shall be legally dissolved from the date of such advertisement, and the requisite consents to the instrument of dissolution shall be considered to have been duly obtained without proof of the signatures thereto.

(f) Notice shall be sent to the central office of any proceeding to set aside the dissolution of a society, not less than seven days before it is commenced, by the person by whom it is taken, or of any other setting it aside, within seven days after it is made by the society.

Offences, Penalties, and Legal Proceedings.

62.—It shall be an offence under this Act if any registered society—

(1) Fails to give any notice, send any return or document, or do or allow to be done any act or thing which the society is by this Act required to give, send, do, or allow to be done; or

(2) Wilfully neglects or refuses to do any act or to furnish any information required for the purposes of this Act by the Chief or any other Registrar or any other person authorised under this Act, or does any act or thing forbidden by this Act; or

(3) Makes a return or wilfully furnishes information in any respect false or insufficient; or

(4) Carries on the business of banking when it has any withdrawable share capital, or in carrying on such business does not make out and keep conspicuously hung up such statement as is hereinbefore required, or makes any payment of withdrawable capital contrary to the provisions of this Act.

63.—Every offence by a society under this Act shall be deemed to have been also committed by every officer of the same bound by the rules thereof to fulfil the duty whereof such offence is a breach, or, if there be no such officer, then by every member of the committee of the same, unless such member be proved to have been ignorant of or to have attempted to prevent the commission of such offence; and every act or default under this Act constituting an offence, if continued, shall constitute a new offence in every week during which the same continues.

64.—If any person obtains possession by false representation or imposition of any property of a society, or having the same in his possession withholds or misapplies the same, or wilfully applies any part thereof to purposes other than those expressed or directed in the rules of the society and authorised by this Act, he shall, on the complaint of the society, or of any member authorised by the society, or the committee thereof, or by the central office, or of the Chief Registrar or any Assistant Registrar by his authority, be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds with costs, and to be ordered to deliver up all such property or to repay all moneys applied improperly, and, in default of such delivery or repayment, or of the payment of such fine, to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any time not exceeding three months; but nothing in this section shall prevent any such person from being proceeded against by way of indictment, if not previously convicted of the same offence under this Act.

65.—If any person wilfully makes, orders, or allows to be made any entry or erasure in, or omission from, any balance sheet of a registered society, or any contribution or collecting book, or any return or document required to be sent, produced, or delivered for the purposes of this Act, with intent to falsify the same, or to evade any of the provisions of this Act, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds.

66.—If any officer of a registered society, or any person on its behalf, uses any seal purporting to be a seal of the society, whereon its name is not so engraved as aforesaid, or issues or authorises the issue of any notice, advertisement, or other official publication of the society, or signs or authorises to be signed on behalf of the society any bill of exchange, promissory note, endorsement, cheque, order for money or goods, or issues or authorises to be issued any bills of parcels, invoice, receipt, or letters of credit of the society, wherein its name is not mentioned in manner aforesaid, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, and shall further be personally liable to the holder of any such bill of exchange, promissory note, cheque, or order for money or goods for the amount thereof unless the same is duly paid by the society.

67.—It shall be an offence under this Act if any person, with intent to mislead or defraud, gives to any other person a copy of any rules, other than the rules for the time being registered under this Act, on the pretence that the same are existing rules of a registered society, or that there are no other rules of such society, or gives to any person a copy of any rules on the pretence that such rules are the rules of a registered society when the society is not registered.

68.—Every society, officer or member of a society, or other person, guilty of an offence under this Act for which no penalty is expressly provided herein, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five pounds.

69.—(1) Every fine imposed or to be imposed by this Act, or by any regulations under this Act, or by the rules of a registered society, shall be recoverable summarily;

(2) Any such fine, if imposed by this Act or by any regulations thereunder, shall be recoverable at the suit of the Chief Registrar, or of any Assistant Registrar, or of any person aggrieved, and, if imposed by the rules of a registered society, shall be recoverable at the suit of the society.

70.—(1) In England or Ireland any party may appeal to quarter sessions from any order or conviction made by a court of summary jurisdiction under this Act;

(2) In Scotland any person may appeal from any order or conviction under this Act in accordance with the provisions of the Summary Jurisdiction (Scotland) Acts.
Supplemental.

71.—The registrar and high bailiffs of the County Courts shall be remunerated for the duties to be performed by them under this Act in such manner as the Treasury, with the consent of the Lord Chancellor, from time to time order and direct.

72.—The Treasury may appoint public auditors for the purposes of this Act, and may determine the rates of remuneration to be paid by registered societies for the services of such auditors, but the employment of such auditors shall not be compulsory.

73.—(1) The Treasury may determine a scale of fees to be paid for matters to be transacted or for the inspection of documents under this Act;

(2) All fees received by any Registrar under or by virtue of this Act shall be paid into the Exchequer.

74.—(1) The Treasury may make regulations respecting registry and procedure under this Act, and the forms to be used for such registry, and the duties and functions of the Registrar, and the inspection of documents kept by the Registrar under this Act, and generally for carrying this Act into effect;

(2) All such regulations shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within ten days after the making thereof if Parliament is then sitting, or, if not then sitting, then within ten days from the then next assembling of Parliament;

(3) Until otherwise provided by such regulations, the forms contained in the Fourth Schedule to this Act shall be used.

75.—Every copy of rules or other instrument or document, copy or extract of an instrument or document, bearing the seal or stamp of the central office, shall be received in evidence without further proof; and every document purporting to be signed by the Chief or any Assistant Registrar, or any inspector or public auditor under this Act, shall, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, be received in evidence without proof of the signature.
76.—Sub-sections six, seven, eight, and nine of section ten of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, relating to the duties of the Chief Registrar and Assistant Registrars, shall, so far as the same are applicable to industrial and provident societies, be incorporated with this Act.

77.—With respect to the Channel Islands this Act shall be varied as follows:—

(i) As respects the island of Jersey, the following provisions shall have effect:—

(a) The term “County Court” shall mean the court for the recovery of petty debts in all cases in which the claim or demand shall not exceed the sum of ten pounds sterling, and in all other cases the inferior number of the Royal Court of the said island, composed of the bailiff and two jurats of the said court;

(b) The term “court of summary jurisdiction” shall have in civil cases the same meaning as the term “County Court”;

(c) All misdemeanors under this Act shall be prosecuted, tried, and punished in the form and manner prescribed by the law and custom of the said island with respect to crimes and offences (crimes et délits);

(d) All other offences and all penalties under this Act shall be prosecuted and recovered summarily before the magistrate of the court for the repression of minor offences, in all cases of his competency, at the suit or instance of the bailiff of the parish in which the offence or other unlawful act shall have been committed, and in all other cases before the bailiff and two jurats of the Royal Court, at the suit or instance of Her Majesty’s Procurator-General for the said island;
(c) All penalties recovered under this Act shall be paid to the officers who by the law and practice of the said island are entitled to receive fines levied by order of the said courts respectively, and shall by such officers be accounted for and paid to Her Majesty's Receiver-General in the said island on behalf of the Crown;

(f) The powers conferred under this Act on two justices shall be exercised by the inferior number of the Royal Court of the said island;

(g) All proceedings under this Act in any of the courts of the said island shall be regulated according to the ordinary practice of such courts respectively, and all penalties shall in default of payment be enforced in the same manner as fines payable to the Crown in the said island;

(h) The rules prescribed by the law of the said island with respect to appeals in civil and criminal cases shall be followed as to appeals from any orders, judgments, or convictions made in cases of summary jurisdiction under this Act;

(i) The term "the Companies Acts" shall mean the law for the time being in force in the said island for the regulation and winding-up of companies.

(2) As respects the bailiwick of the island of Guernsey:

(a) The Court of Primary Instance within the bailiwick shall have all such powers and authorities as are by this Act conferred either on justices of the peace or on judges of County Courts in England: Provided that a sentence may be appealed from it if the case admits of an appeal, under the Orders in Council now in force within the bailiwick, but that the decision of the Royal Court when sitting in a body as a court of appeal shall be final;
(b) When any sum of money becomes payable on the death of a member, such money shall, in default of any direction or nomination such as is contemplated by this Act, be paid to the deceased member’s legal representative, according to the law of Guernsey;

(c) All Industrial and Provident Societies within the bailiwick shall be authorised to invest any part of their funds in the States bonds either of Guernsey or Alderney;

(d) The term “the Companies Acts” shall mean the law for the time being in force in the said bailiwick for the regulation and winding-up of companies;

(e) All offences and penalties under this Act shall be prosecuted and recovered summarily before the court of primary jurisdiction at the suit or instance of the law officers of the Crown, or of a constable of a parish;

(f) All penalties recovered under this Act shall be paid to the Receiver-General, to be by him carried to the account of the Crown revenue.

78.—In the Channel Islands, when any sum of money becomes payable on the death of a person entitled to make a nomination under this Act, such sum shall, in default of any nomination, be paid to the deceased member’s legal representative according to the law of the island in which such deceased member was domiciled.

79.—In this Act, if not inconsistent with the context, the following terms shall have the meanings hereinafter respectively assigned to them:—

"The Registrar" shall mean, for England, the central office established by the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, and, for Scotland or Ireland, the Assistant Registrar of Friendly Societies for either country respectively; "the central office" shall mean the central office so established; and "Chief Registrar" and "Assistant Registrar" shall mean Chief Registrar and Assistant Registrar of Friendly Societies respectively;
“Land” shall include hereditaments and chattels real, and in Scotland heritable subjects, of whatever description;

“Property” shall include all real and personal estate (including books and papers);

“Registered society” shall mean a society registered or deemed to be registered under this Act;

“Amendment of rule” shall include a new rule, and a resolution rescinding a rule;

“Rules” shall mean the registered rules for the time being, and shall include any registered amendment of rules;

“The committee” shall mean the committee of management or other directing body of a society;

“Persons claiming through a member” shall include the heirs, executors, or administrators, and assigns of a member, and also his nominees where nomination is allowed;

“Officer” shall extend to any treasurer, secretary, member of the committee, manager, or servant, other than a servant appointed by the committee, of a society;

“Meeting” shall include (where the rules of a society so allow) a meeting of delegates appointed by members;

“Office” shall mean the registered office for the time being of a society;

“County Court” shall mean, for Scotland, the sheriff court of the county, and, for Scotland, “probate or letters of administration” shall mean confirmation in cases of testate succession, and testament dative in cases of intestate succession;

“Gazette” shall mean the London Gazette for England, the Edinburgh Gazette for Scotland, and the Dublin Gazette for Ireland.

80.—The enactments specified in the First Schedule hereto are hereby repealed to the extent appearing in the third column of that schedule.

SCHEDULE.

CHAPTER 31.

An Act to amend the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893.

[15th August, 1913.]

Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1.—A society consisting solely of two or more registered societies may, notwithstanding anything contained in section five of the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893 (in this Act referred to as the principal Act), be registered if the application to register the society is signed by two members of the committee and the secretary of each of the constituent societies, and is accompanied by two printed copies of the rules of each such society.

2.—(1) Every registered society shall once in every year submit its accounts for audit to one or more of the public auditors appointed under the provisions of the principal Act.

(2) An auditor shall not hold any other office in connection with the Society.

3.—(1) For paragraph (c) of subsection (2) of section fourteen of the principal Act (which relates to the date to which annual returns are to be made up) the following paragraph shall be substituted:

(c) shall be made up from the date of its registration or last annual return to that of its last published balance sheet, unless the last-mentioned date is more than four months before or more than one month after the thirty-first day of December, in which case it shall be made up to the said thirty-first day of December inclusive; and

(2) A registered society shall, together with the annual return, send to the Registrar a copy of the report of the auditors and a copy of each balance sheet made during the period included in the return.

4.—A registered society shall, once at least in every three years, make out and send to the Registrar, together with the annual return for the year, a special return signed by the auditor or auditors showing the holding of each person in the society (whether in shares or loans) at the date to which the said annual return is made out: Provided that, where such persons are in the list of members kept by the society distinguished by numbers, it shall be sufficient if they are distinguished in the special return by such numbers, and in that case it shall not be necessary to specify their names.
5.—(1) The principal Act shall as respects nominations made after the commencement of this Act have effect as if the following provisions were substituted for section twenty-five of the principal Act:—

(1) A member of a registered society not being under the age of sixteen years may, by writing under his hand delivered at or sent to the registered office of the society during the lifetime of such member or made in any book kept thereat, nominate any person or persons to or among whom there shall be transferred at his decease such property in the society as may be his at the time of his decease (whether in shares, loans, or deposits, or otherwise), or so much thereof as is specified in such nomination, if the nomination does not comprise the whole. If on the death of the nominator the amount of his property in the society comprised in the nomination exceeds one hundred pounds the nomination shall be valid to the extent of one hundred pounds, but not further or otherwise:

Provided that a person so nominated shall not be an officer or servant of the society unless such officer or servant is the husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator.

(2) A nomination so made may be revoked or varied by a subsequent nomination signed and delivered or sent or made as aforesaid or by any similar document in the nature of a revocation or variation under the hand of the nominator so delivered sent or made as aforesaid, but shall not be revocable or variable by the will of the nominator or by any codicil thereto.

(3) The society shall keep a book wherein the names of all persons so nominated and all revocations or variations (if any) of such nominations shall be recorded, and the property comprised in any such nomination to an amount not exceeding one hundred pounds shall be payable or transferable to the nominee although the rules of the society declare the shares not to be transferable.

(4) The marriage of a member of a society shall operate as a revocation of any nomination made by him before such marriage, provided that, in the event of an officer of a society having transferred any property of a member to a nominee, in ignorance of a marriage contracted subsequent to the date of the nomination, the receipt of the nominee shall be a valid discharge to the society, and the society shall be under no liability to any other person claiming such property.

(2) The principal Act shall, as respects nominators dying after the commencement of this Act, have effect as if the following provisions were substituted for sub-section (1) of section twenty-six of the principal Act—

(1) On receiving satisfactory proof of the death of a nominator, the committee of the society shall, subject to the limitation on amount hereinbefore provided, either transfer the property comprised in the nomination in manner directed by the nomination, or pay to every person entitled thereunder the full value of the property given to him, unless the shares comprised in the nomination, if transferred as directed by the nominator, would raise the share capital of any nominee to a sum exceeding two hundred pounds, in which case they shall pay him the value of such excess.

(2) Where a nominee who is nominated under the provisions of this Act is under sixteen years of age, the society may pay the sum nominated to either parent, or to a guardian of the nominee, or to any other person of full age who will undertake to hold the same on trust for the nominee or to apply the same for his benefit and whom the society may think a fit and proper person for the purpose, and the receipt of such parent, guardian, or other person shall be a sufficient discharge to the society for all moneys so paid.

6.—The principal Act shall have effect with respect to the payment of duty on the death of members dying after the commencement of this Act as if the following provisions were substituted for section twenty-eight of the principal Act:

(1) If the principal value of the estate, in respect of which estate duty is payable, of any deceased member of a registered society exceeds one hundred pounds, any property or money to be transferred or paid under section twenty-five, twenty-six, or twenty-seven of this Act without probate or administration shall be liable to estate duty as part of the amount on which that duty is charged; and the committee of the society, before making any such transfer or payment, may require a statutory declaration by the claimant or one of the claimants that such principal value, including the property or money in question, does not, after deduction of debts and funeral expenses, exceed one hundred pounds.

(2) If the principal value of the property or money to be so transferred or paid exceeds eighty pounds, the committee of the society shall, before making any transfer or payment to any person other than the legal personal representative of the deceased member, require production of a certificate from the Commissioners of Inland Revenue of the payment of the estate duty, and a duly stamped receipt for the succession or legacy duty payable in respect of the property or money so transferred or paid, or a certificate that no estate, succession, or legacy duty is payable thereon.

7.—In section twenty-nine of the principal Act (which relates to the property of insane members) the words "not exceeding one hundred pounds" shall be repealed.
8.—On dissolution or transfer of engagements, as provided for in sections fifty-eight and fifty-three of the principal Act, the society shall not be dissolved and registration of the society shall not be cancelled until a certificate signed by the liquidator or by the secretary or some other officer of the society approved by the Registrar has been lodged with the Registrar that all property vested in the society has been duly conveyed or transferred by the society to the persons entitled.

9.—In subsection (4) of section fifty of the principal Act (which relates to the expenses of inspections and special meetings) after the word "incidental" there shall be inserted the words "or preliminary."

10.—The following provisions shall be substituted for section sixty-two of the principal Act:

It shall be an offence under this Act if—

(a) a registered society, or an officer or member thereof, or any other person, fails to give any notice, send any return or document, do or allow to be done anything which the society, officer, or member, or person is by this Act required to give, send, do, or allow to be done; or

(b) a registered society, or an officer or member thereof, or any other person, wilfully neglects or refuses to do any act, or to furnish any information required for the purposes of this Act by the Chief or other Registrar, or by any other person authorised under this Act, or does anything forbidden by this Act; or

(c) a registered society, or an officer or member thereof, or any other person, makes a return, or wilfully furnishes information in any respect false or insufficient; or
(d) a registered society carries on the business of banking when it has any withdrawable share capital, or in carrying on such business does not make out and keep conspicuously hung up such statement as is hereinbefore required, or makes any payment of withdrawable capital contrary to the provisions of this Act.

11.—The following subsections shall be added to the provisions contained in section sixty-nine of the principal Act:

(3) Any costs or expenses ordered or directed by the Chief or other Registrar to be paid by any person under this Act shall be recoverable summarily before a court of summary jurisdiction as a civil debt.

(4) Where proceedings are taken against a society for the recovery of any fine under this Act, the summons or other process shall be sufficiently served by leaving a true copy thereof at the registered office of the society, or, if that office is closed, by posting the copy on the outer door of that office.

12.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Industrial and Provident Societies (Amendment) Act, 1913, and the Industrial and Provident Societies Acts, 1893 to 1895, and this Act may be cited together as the Industrial and Provident Societies Acts, 1893 to 1913.

(2) This Act shall be construed as one with the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893, and shall come into operation on the first day of January nineteen hundred and fourteen.

(3) The principal Act is hereby repealed to the extent specified in the third column of the Schedule to this Act.

In pursuance of the powers vested in their Lordships by the above-mentioned statute, the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury make and approve of the following regulations:—

Application to Register Societies or Amendments of Rules.

(1) Every application to register a society under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893 (in these Regulations termed "the Act"), shall be in Form A subjoined to these Regulations, and shall be sent to the Registrar.

(2) An amendment of the rules of a society may be either—

(a) A partial amendment, consisting of the addition of a new rule or rules, or part of a rule or rules, to the existing rules, or the substitution of a new rule or rules, or part of a rule or rules, for any of the existing rules, or any part thereof, or a rescission of any of the existing rules, or any part thereof, without any substitution, or more than one or all of these modes; or,

(b) A complete amendment, consisting of the substitution of an entire set of rules for the existing set of rules, and bearing at the beginning the words "all previous rules rescinded."
Section 10 (2).

(3) An application to register a partial amendment of rules must be made by the secretary of the society, in Form B, and must be sent to the Registrar accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form C, and by a printed copy of the existing rules marked to show where the alterations occur, and what they are, and by the following documents:

(a) If the partial amendment consists of the addition or substitution of a new rule or rules, two copies of such new rule or rules, each copy being marked O, and signed by three members and the secretary.

(b) If the partial amendment consists of the rescission of any of the rules without any substitution, two copies of the resolution for such rescission, each copy being marked O, and signed by three members and the secretary.

(4) An application to register a complete amendment of rules must be made by the secretary of the society in Form D, and must be sent to the Registrar accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form C, and by a copy of the existing rules, and by two copies of the new rules, each copy being marked "P," and signed by three members and the secretary.

Recording of Rules already Registered.

(5) An application to record in one part of the United Kingdom rules or amendments of rules registered in another shall be made by the secretary or other officer of the society in Form E or Ea. and shall be accompanied by two copies of such rules or amendments under the seal of the Central Office, or the signature of the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be.

(5a) Rules or amendments of rules shall be recorded by writing at the foot or end of each copy the word "recorded," and by affixing to the same the seal of the Central Office, or the signature of the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be.
Cancelling and Suspension of Registry.

(6) Every request to cancel registry shall be sent to the Section 9 (1). Registrar in Form F, and shall name some newspaper circulating in or about the locality in which the registered office of the society is situated, wherein it is desired that the cancelling of registry shall be published, and shall be accompanied by the sum requisite to defray the expense of such publication, and by the further sum of 5s. 6d. for publication of such cancelling in the Gazette.

(7) Where application is made to cancel registry under the compulsory powers of the Registrar, the Registrar may require such application to be made in duplicate in such form, and to be supported by such statutory declaration, as the Chief Registrar may direct, and shall transmit one copy of such application to the Treasury for their consent.

(8) Notice before cancelling or suspension of registry shall be in Form G.

(9) The cancelling of registry shall be in Form H, and the suspension or renewal of suspension of registry shall be in Form I.

(10) The advertisement of cancelling or suspension shall be in Form J.

Registered Office.

(11) Every notice of a change in the situation of the Section 11. registered office of a society shall be sent to the Registrar within fourteen days after every such change, in Form K. Notice of the situation of the registered office of a society on first registry shall be deemed to be given by the rules.

Inspection of Books by Order of the Registrar.

(12) Every application to the Registrar to appoint an Section 18. accountant or actuary to inspect the books of a society shall be in Form L.
Nominations.

(13) Every registered society shall keep a record or register of all nominations made by the members, and of all revocations and variations of the same, and for the recording or registering of every such nomination, revocation, or variation the rules of the society may require the member nominating to pay a sum not exceeding 3d.

Transfer of Stock.

(14) Every application to the Chief Registrar to direct a transfer of stock shall follow as near as may be Form M, and shall be accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form N, or as near thereto as the facts admit, and by the certificate of the stock in respect of which the application is made.

(15) Before making the application the society shall submit to the Chief Registrar for examination a draft copy on foolscap paper, written on one side only, of the proposed application and declaration.

(16) The Chief Registrar, before directing the transfer, may require such further proof of any statement in the application as may seem to him to be necessary.

(17) The Chief Registrar shall give his direction in Form O, so framed in each case as to suit the particular circumstances.

Disputes.

(18) Every reference of a dispute to the Chief or Assistant Registrar shall be written on foolscap paper in duplicate in Form P.

(19) Such Registrar, upon receipt of the reference, shall transmit one copy of it to the Treasury for their consent.

(20) Every notice of hearing by the Chief or Assistant Registrar, and every requisition for the attendance of parties and witnesses, and the production of books and documents, shall be in Form Q.
(21) Where it is necessary to enforce the attendance of a particular witness, or the production of a particular document, notice shall be in Form R.

(22) If an order for discovery is necessary it shall be in Form S.

(23) In Scotland, if a warrant for recovery of documents and examination of havers is necessary, it shall be in Form T or U.

(24) The determination and order of the Chief or Assistant Registrar shall be in Form V, or as near thereto as the circumstances of the case may in his judgment allow.

Inspectors and Special Meetings.

(25) An application for appointment of Inspectors or Section 50, for calling a special meeting shall be sent to the Chief Registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business in Scotland and Ireland exclusively, to the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, written on foolscap paper, in duplicate, in Form W, and shall be accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form X, signed by three at least of the applicants.

(26) The Chief or Assistant Registrar may, immediately upon receipt of the application, transmit one copy to the Treasury for their consent, or may, before such transmission, give notice of the application to the society, and send to the Treasury any answer the society may make.

(27) The appointment of Inspectors shall be in Form Y, or as near thereto as circumstances may allow.

(28) The notice of special meeting shall be in Form Z.

(29) The chairman of the special meeting shall report to the Chief or Assistant Registrar as he may direct in Form ZA.
(30) Every application for approval of change of name must be made in duplicate in Form AA, and must be sent to the Chief Registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, to the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form AB. If approved of, the word "approved" shall be written at the foot or end of each such copy, and the same shall be signed by the Chief Registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, by the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be.

(31) Every application to register a special resolution for the amalgamation of societies must be made by each of the societies in duplicate in Form AC, and must be sent to the Central Office, accompanied by statutory declarations from officers of each society in Form AB. No acknowledgment of registry shall be given to either society until special resolutions in the like terms have been submitted for registry by the other or others.

(32) Every application to register a special resolution for the transfer of the engagements of a society to another must be in duplicate in Form AD, and must be sent to the Central Office accompanied by statutory declarations in Forms AB and AE.

(33) Every application to register a special resolution for converting a society into a company must be in triplicate in Form AF, and must be sent to the Central Office accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form AB.

(34) An application for registry of a special resolution for amalgamation with a company, or for transfer of engagements to a company, shall be in duplicate in Form AC or AD, as the case may be, with the necessary modifications to suit the facts, and shall be accompanied by statutory declarations in Forms AB and AG.
(35) A special resolution shall be registered by writing Section 56. at the foot or end of each copy of the same the word "registered" and by affixing to the same the seal or stamp of the Central Office.

(36) Where the special resolution is for conversion into, amalgamation with, or transfer of all the engagements of a society to a company, the following words shall be added: "The registry of the Society is hereby cancelled (or directed to be cancelled).

............................Chief Registrar."

(37) Where a special resolution is passed by a society registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland it shall be sent to the Central Office through the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be. Where a special resolution is registered, passed by a society which is registered or does business in Scotland or Ireland, the Central Office shall forthwith apprise the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, of the same having been so registered, and the Chief Registrar shall, where necessary, give directions for cancelling the registry of such society.

Dissolution.

(38) Every instrument of dissolution shall be in Section 58. Form AH, and shall be signed in duplicate and accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form AI, and by a statement naming some newspaper circulating in or about the locality in which the registered office of the society is situated, wherein it is desired that notice of the dissolution shall be published, and by the sum requisite to defray the expenses of such publication, and by the further sum of for the like publication in the Gazette.

(39) The Registrar shall return one of the duplicates to the society, with an acknowledgment of registry in Form AK.
(40) Alterations in the instrument of dissolution shall be signed, declared to, and registered in like manner.

(41) The advertisement of dissolution by instrument shall be in Form AL.

(42) Every award of the Chief Registrar for distribution of funds shall be in Form AP.

(43) The notice of a proceeding to set aside a dissolution shall be in Form AV, and the notice of an order setting aside a dissolution in Form AZ.

Where such notice relates to a society which is registered, and does business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, it shall be sent to the Central Office through the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be. In all other cases where a society is registered, or does business in Scotland or Ireland, the Central Office shall forthwith apprise the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, of the receipt of the same.

Fees.

(As Amended by Regulation dated Dec. 31st, 1906.)

(44) The following fees shall be payable in advance for matters to be transacted, and for the inspection of documents under the Act:—

For the acknowledgment of registry of every Society (reducible as mentioned below) .................................................. £ 5 0 0

For the acknowledgment of registry of every amendment of rules of a Society ........................................... £ 1 0 0

For the registry of a special resolution by any Society (to include, in the case of a change of name, the approval of the same) .................................................. £ 0 10 0

For a direction to transfer stock .................. £ 1 0 0

For every appointment of inspectors, or calling of a special meeting by a Registrar ........................................... £ 3 0 0
For the determination of a Registrar on a dispute or for his award for distribution of funds................................. £ 3 0 0

And if more than one hearing or adjournment become necessary, then £1 more for every hearing after the first and for every adjournment.

For every document (except as after mentioned) required to be signed by a Registrar, or to bear the seal of the Central Office, not chargeable with any other fee to the Registrar ......................... 0 2 6

For every inspection on the same day of documents (whether one or more) in the custody of the Registrar relating to one and the same Society ....................... 0 1 0

For every copy or extract of any document in the custody of the Registrar not exceeding 216 words ......................... 0 1 0

And, if exceeding that number, 4d. per folio of 72 words (in addition to the fee, if any, for the signature of a Registrar or seal of the Central Office.)

The Chief Registrar may, at his discretion, reduce the fee payable for the acknowledgment of registry to not less than £1 in the case of any society or societies, or class or classes of societies from time to time to be determined by him, whose objects or rules or other special circumstances, in his opinion, entitle such society or societies to such reduction.

Provided that in any case where the Chief Registrar shall have refused to grant such reduction the society in question or, if it has not been registered, the applicants for the registry thereof, may within one month after such refusal appeal to the Treasury from such refusal, and the Treasury may direct the Chief Registrar to grant such reduction or may give such other directions in the premises as they think proper.
No fee is payable for the recording of rules or documents already registered in another part of the United Kingdom or for the registry or recording of:

The original rules of a society covered by the acknowledgment of registry.

The cancelling or suspension of registry of a society.

Any notice of change of office.

Any instrument of dissolution or any amendment therein.

Any document or copy of document supplied to a public department.

Any document in respect of which a fee is already chargeable under or by virtue of the Act and of any other statute.

The Chief Registrar may also dispense with the fee for inspection of documents in cases where he may consider it for the public interest to do so.

(45) Regulations 72, 73, and 74 of the Treasury Regulations, 1888, under the Friendly Societies Acts, with Form AV attached thereto, shall apply to the payment by Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland of fees received by them by virtue of the Act or of these Regulations.

Modification of Forms.

(46) The Forms hereto annexed may be modified to suit particular cases, by authority of the Chief Registrar.

(47) The Chief Registrar may dispense with the obligation to supply a duplicate of any document, where such obligation is imposed only by the Regulations.
